

$15,600,000 paid on 1955 crop

B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., announced today a further advance on the 1955 apple crop, amounting to $204,862.59. Total amount paid to date, including pools of other fruit varieties, and advances on the main apple crop now $15,600,000.

Figures are gross payments to packinghouses from which packing costs, including labor and material, have to be deducted to arrive at the grower's net return.

Apple pool is expected to close within the next week or ten days, and final figures will then be released.

Twelve national groups will present folk song dance festival Saturday

Twelve different national groups will present their native songs and dances at next Saturday night's International Folk Song and Dance Festival in the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena.

The success of the festivals held in 1949 and 1952 has prompted the Kelowna Rotary Club to again sponsor the event. Over 4,000 people jammed the arena for the last festival. Four groups, totalling 34 performers, are coming from Vancouver, through the courtesy of the Canadian Folk Society, Vancouver branch. Arrangements for their appearance was made by the president of the Vancouver society, Mrs. Margaret Guthrie.

KELOWNA GROUPS
Three Kelowna groups recently performed at the Osoyoos Folk Festival, and according to observers, they were the most outstanding aggregation in the festival. Prices of admission for Saturday's festival have been kept low in order to give everyone an opportunity of seeing these distinguished artists, all of whom possess outstanding talent. The full program appears elsewhere in today's Courier.

School board grant

Sunnyvale Centre will receive financial aid

All-stars to train at Vernon

Vernon will be the training centre of the Canadian hockey entry in next year's world competition, which will be an all-star team, according to the decision arrived at by the CAHA conclave in Montreal a few hours before press time.

While no further details were forthcoming immediately, it was disclosed by Canadian Press that the team would definitely be composed of an all-star selection.

EIGHT CANUCK PLAYERS
President James Dunn of the CAHA made such a proposal in his report, stipulating his desire to see eight of the players be chosen from the Vernon Canadians, and the rest from choice of coaches and sports authorities across Canada.

President Dunn also suggested a one-month training period in Canada, which will be in Vernon, if the CAHA has gone along with Dunn in their resolution.

Canadians' coach George Agar was positive in his assertion that the Allan Cup holders from Vernon should supply 12 of the players for the all-star selection, following the news of Dunn's suggestions.

School Board of School District 23 will contribute financially to the education of students of Sunnyvale Centre in Kelowna, it was reported last night at a meeting of the Kelowna and District Society for Retarded Children.

Supported entirely by public contribution for the past three years, the society now will receive a yearly grant of up to $256.47 for each eligible child. Retarded children eligible for the grant are six to 18 years of age. Of the 11 boys and girls enrolled at Sunnyvale, seven will be covered by the annual grant which is retroactive to January 1. To obtain the grant, the student must attend Sunnyvale for at least two hours for each school day.

Sunnyvale Centre, which is operating at temporary quarters in the United Church hall, holds classes from 9 to 3 p.m. Transportation where necessary is provided by the society.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE
It was reported at last night's meeting that progress is being made on the new Sunnyvale Centre on Bertram Street. It is hoped the classroom will be moved next month.

At the request of the local school board, an education committee has been set up by the society. It consists of the president, Ivor Jackson; secretary, Mrs. W. T. Duss; a member of the screening committee, Mrs. W. O. Clark; an executive member, Mrs. T. F. McWilliams; and the school district inspector A. S. Matheson.

Fruit industry protests rise in freight rates

B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., has filed a strong protest with the board of transport commissioners against any increase in freight rates which might arise from the railway's recent application for a blanket 15 percent boost across the board.

ATTEND PARLEY
Mayor J. J. Ladd and several members of the City Council, today are attending the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association in Penticton.

WELFARE OFFICER
J. R. Wood, veterans' welfare officer, will visit Kelowna Monday, June 4, for the purpose of interviewing ex-servicemen on war veterans' allowance problems. Those wishing an interview, should contact the Legion secretary-manager, Don White.

Welcome rain

Parched orchard lands and gardens soaked up last night's welcome rain. It was the first marked precipitation in about two months.

The light rainfall is not expected to have any effect on the flood picture. Warm weather during the past two weeks has melted snow up to the 4,000 foot level, and Mission Creek has just about reached its peak. Kelowna (M.D.) Creek, which swelled its way through the city, has passed the critical stage.

Orchardists have been obliged to irrigate much earlier this year due to the dry spring.

Children steal pet parade show

More than 1,500 crowded in the stands and around the City Park oval Monday morning to watch the Gyro-sponsored May Day pet parade. Shown here are first prize winners in two of the classes. Sherry Donnelly, 5, (on the tricycle) proudly displays her first prize ribbon. The other float, (bottom) brought roars of approval from the crowd as it went by the stands. Driver was Wendy Walters, while her sister, Debbie, was "Lady-of-the-Lake, 1970."

There were about 200 contestants, bringing almost every imaginable kind of pet to the park. There were chickens, sheep, geese, and even a calf that could barely stand on its own four feet and had to be carried. A few of the dogs had canine differences, but the owners pulled them apart before any damage was done.

Major political issues

CCF head challenges gov't to hold forest licence and road probes before election

British Columbia's fiery CCF leader Robert Strachan invaded Premier Bennett's hometown Saturday night and threw down a three-point election challenge at the Social government. He invited the present administration to act on three major political issues, then call an election.

A crowd of 125 frequently interrupted the 42-year-old CCF leader with applause as he ripped into government policies during the windup of a nine-day tour of interior ridings.

The opposition leader challenged the result of the bigness. 1. Set up a judicial inquiry into the "disgraceful political patronage" the handling of forest management evident in the construction of the licences by former minister R. E. Stewart-Cashar road.

2. Accept the CCF program for agriculture "especially the proposed revolving stabilization fund."

"The next election must be decided on all three of these issues," he declared.

TIME FOR EXAMINATION
"Mr. Bennett cannot bury his failings under a few miles of paving," he said and added "The road to hell is paved with good intentions."

He said an election is not needed until 1956 and that normally one would be expected in 1957.

Mr. Strachan said this gives the premier and the people of B.C. (Turn to page 6, story 1)

Major building projects will contribute to industrial and economic development of city

8,120 children receive Salk vaccine shots

During April and May, 8,120 pupils from age five to fifteen years, received their first injection of Salk vaccine. Ninety-five percent who signed consent forms for the vaccine in phase one received the shot. It was reported at the quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Health Unit.

This completes phase one of the 1956 program, and plans are underway to carry out phase two which will include booster doses for all those children, plus 2200 children who were vaccinated in 1955.

Several major building projects which will contribute to the industrial and economic development of Kelowna, are planned within the next few months, it was learned from well-informed sources today.

A new theatre is planned on Abbott Street, immediately south of the A. J. Jones Boat Works Ltd.

The Bank of Montreal plans to demolish its present premises on the corner of Water Street and Bernard Avenue, and will construct a new one-storey building which will take in the entire property.

The Imperial Bank plans opening an office in Kelowna, and will be located on Bernard Avenue, immediately west of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. store.

The Underhill clinic plans erecting a modern structure on Abbott Street at the corner of Leon Avenue.

Capozzi Enterprises plan building a structure for Simpson-Sears at the corner of Bernard Avenue and Bertram Street.

As announced previously, Crown Zellerbach Ltd. and S. M. Simpson Ltd. plan building huge plants in the north end of the city.

It is understood that negotiations for obtaining property for the new theatre have been underway for some time, and that it has been discussed in committee by city council.

DEMOLISH BUILDING

The Bank of Montreal structure will cost between $200,000 and $300,000. Building is expected to get underway early next year, and during the construction period, the B of M will move into temporary quarters.

The new building for Simpson-Sears will cost around $150,000. Tenders will be called in about a week's time. The two-story structure will have a Bernard Avenue frontage of 76.6 feet with a depth of 120 feet.

The Imperial Bank plans opening offices in two other valley centres. However, it is understood that Don Loane has purchased the property where Lipsett Motors used car lot is now located. Mr. Loane plans building the structure for the Imperial Bank.

Work is now underway removing an old building from the site where the Underhill clinic will be located, and building of the ultra-modern structure will get underway this summer, it is understood.

OTHER PROJECTS

With the construction of Lake Okanagan bridge now underway; residential construction running at an all-time high and building of an underground gas distribution system scheduled to get underway sometime this year, along with other major building projects, there is a definite feeling of optimism in so far as the future development of the city is concerned.

Cat-calls and heckling

Three unions throw weight behind FFVWU in battle to act as bargaining agents

Three major Okanagan Valley unions have thrown their weight behind the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Unions in the latter's battle to act as bargaining agents for the fruit industry's 3500 packinghouse workers.

In one of the hottest labor union meetings witnessed here in the last decade, spokesmen for the United Packinghouse Workers' of America; International Woodworkers' of America, and International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said they would stand beside the FFVWU in its battle against the powerful Teamsters' Union who claim they are the legal bargaining agents.

The meeting, held last Friday, was punctuated by cat calls and heckling. Several people walked out in disgust as tempers flared, and arguing reached the shouting stage.

COURT ACTION

Chairman N. B. Sunderman, FFVWU president finally adjourned the meeting stating it was clearly evident that "the air would not be cleared until the case went before the courts."

Speakers included Dick Norris,

Penticton, special representative for the carpenters' union; Jim Bury, Vancouver, IUPWA representative;

Murdo McKenzie, Nanaimo, local of the FFVWU; Bill Muir, Kelowna, IWA, and Alex McDonald, legal representative for the FFVWU.

The teamsters affiliate came into being at Penticton last January after three locals, Vernon, Nanaimo, and Summerland walked out of the packinghouse workers' convention. The Teamsters claim that nine of the 12 locals favored affiliation with the international body.

Meanwhile, the FFVWU has brought a statement of claim against the teamsters and this has yet to come before the courts.

CHARTER LITTED

During the heated debate, it was disclosed for the first time that the federation's charter had been taken from the union's office and sent back to Canadian Congress of Labor headquarters in Ottawa by an unidentified individual, stating it was no longer required. Lawyer McKenzie doubted whether the newly-merged labor congress would cancel the union's affiliation, and predicted the charter would be back in Kelowna within the "near future."

A heated protracted when IUPWA representative, Jim Bury charged the Teamsters union of being composed of a "bunch of racketeers and strike breakers." He was supported by carpenters' spokesman, Dick (Turn to page 6, story 2)

Little Theatre to hold annual meeting tonight

Prospective members of Kelowna Little Theatre will be welcome at the annual general meeting scheduled for 8:00 o'clock this evening in the KLT building at the corner of Doyle and Bertram.

President Frank Bishop will be in the chair, and offices to be filled include those of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and four directors. From this board a publicity convener will be appointed, and the executive also will elect festival and entertainment committees.

B.C. DRAMA FESTIVAL

Several members of KLT will travel to Nanaimo next week to attend the B.C. Drama Festival finals being held May 30 to June 2. Among these will be Mr. and Mrs. Eric Osvelt, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Irvine; Mrs. Robert Hayman; Mrs. R. Babone and Mrs. Doug Kerr.

As many as twelve celebrities may take part in the finals, including the Oyoama Players, winners of the North Okanagan Zone Drama Festival with "Devil Among the Skins"; and the Grand Forks Players, who won the South Okanagan Zone Drama Festival with their play, "The Good and the Bad".

Three Kelowna women were winners in this festival: Mrs. May Irvine, best actress award; Mrs. Robert Hayman, best director award and Mrs. Alice Winsby, best supporting actress.

Winesap apple sales steady

Winesap sales on all grades, 206, and larger in Canada were steady throughout the week and Two Fruits has now withdrawn quotations for these grades and sizes as the unsold balance represents a "rebound" against inventory errors. Based on the present rate of shipping, it is expected the greater part of the holdings will have moved by June 1 and the balance a few days later.

A small quantity of extra fancy Winesaps, size 2 1/2 remain unsold, and there has been little demand even at bargain prices. The slow movement of this size has hampered the closing of some storages, Tree Fruits explained.

TO CHANNEL ISLANDS... Mrs. M. H. H. left via Vancouver last week to return to her home in Jersey, Channel Islands, after spending the past two months in Kelowna with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. H. of San Francisco.

Of interest here is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Thirwell, of North Vancouver, of the engagement of their only daughter, Betty Louise, to Mr. Gerald Stanley McNamee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McNamee. Both Miss Thirwell and Mr. McNamee were regular contestants at the Kelowna Regatta in bygone years.

The marriage will take place in the First Baptist Church, Kelowna, at 7:30 p.m., on Monday, June 18, the Rev. B. A. Wingblade officiating.

Couple exchange vows at Church of Immaculate Conception

Rev. Father J. A. Cunningham officiated at the rites solemnized earlier this month in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, when Emma Ann Kummer became the bride of Albert Norman Manarin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kummer, 624 Ethel St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. U. Manarin, R.R. 2, Kelowna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in traditional white. Her floor-length gown of net and lace over satin was styled with a lace jacket and lily-point sleeves, while the full skirt was heavily lace-trimmed. Net leaves framed her headpiece, from which was draped a finger-tip veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Loretta Manarin, the groom's sister, and Miss Helen Weninger, attended the bride; the former in a ballerina-length dress of net over tulle, with which she carried a bouquet of blue iris. Miss Weninger was in a similarly-styled dress in turquoise, and both wore matching flowered headpieces. Miss Weninger's bouquet was of white mums.

Taffed and nuptial decorated the church, and groomsmen were Mr. Dave Manarin, the groom's brother, Mr. Nick Kummer, Mr. John Ego and Mr. Elmo Rantucci, ushered, and Mrs. D. Bach played the wedding music. Mrs. Helen Martin was the soloist.

HOLD RECEPTION

Kelowna's Aquatic Club was the scene of the 6:00 p.m. reception, which was attended by 120 guests, and at which Father Cunningham proposed the toast to the bride, and the groom responded. A light blue chiffon over tulle dress was worn by Mrs. Kummer, while Mrs. Manarin chose navy lace over tulle, both with white accessories and corsages of pink carnations. Wreathed in tulle, the three-tiered cake was flanked by candles.

Two hundred and fifty guests attended the dance held later in the evening. For going away the bride HOLIDAY WEEKEND... Bruce Catchpole, of Powell River, and his brother, Michael, of Burnaby, were at home for the holiday weekend.

Many guests travel from N. Westminster and Sask. for Bach-Wunderlich nuptials

Many guests travelled from New Westminster and from Saskatchewan to attend the wedding of Rita Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wunderlich, 961 Borden Avenue, to Daniel James Bach, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bach, of Rutland. The marriage vows were solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 11:00 a.m. Saturday, May 19, Rev. Father J. A. Cunningham officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Following the ceremony a dinner and reception was held at the Kelowna Aquatic Club, which was attended by 150 guests. Father Cunningham proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by Mr. John Wunderlich. The three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wunderlich chose a dress of azure blue with matching jacket and deep pink accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

During the evening, some of the junior members of Jean Fuller's School of Dancing entertained with four delightful numbers. A sing-song followed with Fred Marriage at the piano, and Charles Patrick conducting. A film was enjoyed, along with a magic show put on by Bruce Bissell.

Prizes were awarded: Miss Edgell, oldest female member of the audience; Mr. Hemming, oldest male member present; Mrs. Bush, who observed her birthday that day; H. Moore for the nearest birthday; Mrs. Packham, old-timer, here since 1907; and Mr. Holton, a newcomer.

Chilliwack rites of interest to Kelownians

Baskets of Japanese, flowering currant and white stocks, donated by the Missionary Alliance Church at Chilliwack, for the marriage this month of Evelyn Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry S. McManis, of Chilliwack, B.C., and Charles Roy Morehouse, of Prince George, youngest son of Mrs. Mary Morehouse, of Kelowna. The candle-light, double-ring ceremony was solemnized at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 5, by the Rev. Paul W. Edmondson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length, white tulle-point and nylon net over satin gown, which featured a bolero with a jeweled collar, and lily-point sleeves. From her pearl and sequin tiara fell a chapel veil of illusion net and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

Styled similarly to that of the bride were the blue dresses worn by attendants, Mrs. J. H. Schroeder and Miss Eleanor McManis, sisters of the bride. Candle-lighters, Miss Joyce Schroeder and Miss Louella Neumann were gowned in long, white dresses.

Groomsmen were Mr. Elvin McManis and Mr. Harvey Schroeder, and ushering were Mr. Bob Schiele and Mr. Bill Schroeder. Soloist Mr. Carl Lindbach sang "The Lord's Prayer" preceding the ceremony, and the wedding prayer during the signing of the register.

The wedding reception was held in the United Church hall, where the parents of the principals assisted in receiving the 150 guests. The bride's mother wore a grey dress with pink accessories, and the groom's mother chose a white suit with pink accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

White stocks were used effectively at the bride's table which was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Mr. J. H. Schroeder proposed the toast to the bride and the groom responded. Miss Schroeder and Miss Neumann, the candle-lighters, were the servants. A concert was held during the banquet.

The bride donned a white dress topped by a mint green coat, with which she wore black accessories for travelling by car on a trip through the States to Winnipeg, where she and her husband will reside.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Brunschi, of Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. D. Decker, of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. E. Lindbach, of Prince George.

Ideal weather marks CARS blossom drive

Ideal weather marked the second annual blossom drive and tea for patients and their families, sponsored by the WA to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

A cavalcade of ten cars drove through the orchards in the Okanagan Mission area, visiting the J. W. Hughes farm, then back to the lakeside home of Mrs. O. Jennings, where tea was served on the shaded lawn.

Arrangements for the event were under the direction of Mrs. W. Russ, assisted by Mrs. F. Hutton, in charge of drivers and cars, Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. F. Manning-Keevil, Mrs. R. F. Cruikshank, Mrs. H. Van Ackeren, Mrs. J. A. Trewhitt, and Miss June Williams, local physiotherapist.

C. R. Bull, acting president of CARS greeted the guests, who more than doubled last year's attendance, which attests to the popularity of this yearly outing for many who are otherwise house bound. Before they left, each guest was presented with a bouquet of flowers, through the courtesy of J. W. Hughes.

In Memoriam

McPHER—In loving memory of our son, Angus McPher, who passed away May 23rd, 1955.
"You suffered much in silence,
Your grief did not bend;
You faced your pain with courage
Until the very end.
You tried so hard to stay with us,
You lived so all in vain;
God took you to His loving home
And freed you from all pain."
In loving memory of our son, Angus McPher, who passed away May 23rd, 1955.

New defenceman signed

Summer weather may be here but coach Moe Young starts building next season's team

"Summer? It's a wonderful season alright, ideal for strengthening the weak spots in your hockey team," grinned coach Moe Young, genial playing mentor of the Kelowna Packers senior "A" hockey team, as he disclosed the acquisition of a new tower of defence strength.

The new stalwart, 23-year-old, 6'2" of hard-hitting bone and muscle, is Jack Power, who played with Abitibi in the Northern Ontario Hockey League last year, earning the third highest scoring average for rear guards.

Power, who arrived in Kelowna yesterday, is a younger brother of Ted Power, the old pro centre man for Chatham Maroons, who achieved dubious fame in the Allan Cup series against Vernon Canadians when he tried to comb Willie Schmidt's hair with his stick and earned a suspension of two games for his efforts.

THREE LUCKY NUMBER

Born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, on the third day of the third month of 1933, Power claims that three is his lucky number, and hopes to wear that number with the Kelowna club, following the superstitious.

Before playing in Abitibi, Power played under wily Murph Chamberlain, coach of the Chatham team this year, on the Windsor Bulldogs.

In junior ranks, he worked with the Ottawa St. Pats, in very classy company.

Couch Young has had his eye on Power for some time, and while he had an idea he might be able to sign him, he wasn't sure until yesterday, when the powerful young man showed up in the Orchard City.

"I don't mean to be caught napping when the goose start flying," said Young, "I am going to get my hockey team together as soon as it is physically possible, and be all ready to start in training seriously when Percy Downton gets that ice going again."

Club 13 beats Lumby 13-6 but lose to Wallaces 5-3

Kelowna's Club 13 had their ups and downs in the holiday weekend's exhibition play, trouncing Lumby 13-6 on Sunday afternoon, and coming in second best on a 5-3 score against Vancouver Wallaces, on Monday afternoon.

In Sunday's game, the local boys, spurred on by tight pitching by John Wenninger, who went eight innings, before he was relieved by Eugene Knorr, outclassed the Lumby boys. Following the first three innings, they held them scoreless, while they went on to victory.

Monday's game was tight and hard played, with the Club 13 going 3-0 in the second, and held scoreless the rest of the game.

CLUB 13, LUMBY 6

Club 13 snared three runs in the first inning, on hits by Dennis Casey, Pete Wenninger, and Joe Welder, and a sacrifice hit by first sacker Joe Schneider.

Lumby came back with three, tying up the ball game, on clouts by Edgar Hintz, Wally Lemeister, and Ron Genier.

Club 13 moved ahead with two runs in the top of the second, with John Urban clouting a three-bagger and scoring, and John Wenninger bringing in one, Hintz for Lumby, came through with his second run, and Melvin Major tied up the ball game 5-5.

Club 13 were blanked in the third, and John Ostrales came through with one hitting them for Lumby in the lead. Both teams drew blanks in the fourth, but Club 13 had a field day in the fifth, bringing in seven runs going the batting round completely.

One run in the seventh wound up the ball game, as the Lumby nine failed to hit the score sheet again.

CLUB 13, 3

2 Three unions

Russ Leckie, business agent for the Teamsters, challenged the authority of the FFWU officers, stating they were elected unconstitutionally "by a small group of disgruntled convention delegates."

ROOT OF TROUBLE

George Snowden, a Teamsters' executive member, charged that the United Packinghouse Workers of America were "the root of all our trouble," despite the fact that his group is merely interested in seeing harmony within the union movement.

UPWA are the bargaining agents for three canneries in the valley. "It is rather strange that the past leaders of your organization (fruit and vegetable workers) have been used to saving you over," charged Mr. Burry. His remarks met with cat calls, and he was heckled when he stated the FFWU "has a very strong case."

"The UPWA accepts the fact that the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers Union represent the workers, and will do its best to help organize a stronger union and get a fair deal for the workers," he declared.

SETTLE DIFFERENCES Dick Norris urged the two factions to settle their differences, but he warned the Teamsters that the FFWU is the legal bargaining agent for the fruit workers. He was opposed to the methods used by the Teamsters in their affiliation, and criticized the Okanagan Trades and Labor Council's action for imposing a ban on the federation. The FFWU has no representation on the OTLC in view of the fact they have no charter.

Legal representative for the FFWU charged the Teamsters "took over" after they contributed $2,000 to the fruit workers' strike fund last fall, "despite the fact you had over $30,000 in your coffers." When the Teamsters union was formed, all records were seized. A court order was later issued placing the union in liquidation, pending the outcome of the dispute.

He thought fruit workers were being misled by Teamsters' organizers, and warned that under the Teamsters' charter, the valley workers would not have local autonomy nor can their union dues remain in the Okanagan.

THREE BANDS Three bands have definitely confirmed they will be here for this year's regatta. They are the B.C. band in Edmonton; the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack, and the Powell River Pipe Band.

RHEUMATIC FEVER STUDY

A third-year medical student at the University of B.C., Miss Barbara Hesse, has been assigned to the South Okanagan Health Unit for a summer in order to gain experience in public health and to assist in a rheumatic fever study now being conducted by valley physicians in co-operation with this health unit. It was learned yesterday at the quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Health Unit.

Children like grown up look in their shoes

Children's shoe fashion for Spring and Summer are keeping right in step with the important trends in grown-up patterns.

Gone are the days of the heavy robed shoe. Now, youngsters have a wide variety for every occasion to choose from, with styling combined with proper construction for growing feet.

With the trend in adult shoe fashions very definitely on the slimmer, sleeker look, children's shoes too have followed suit and have taken on a new simplicity in style.

The slinky look is out. The smarter, trimmer, neater look is in, and it appears that the story for boys and girls alike is one of dressing up rather than dressing down.

One of the predominant styles for wear this coming season is the single instep strap shoe. This style has been slimmed down with decorative detailing small and delicate.

Shell pumps too, cut low, giving a really bare look to the foot will be another popular style for Spring through Summer wear. Often these shell pumps appear absolutely plain, giving a really sleek appearance.

Then again, they are often dressed up with the addition of a grosgrain button or two, or a little tailored buckle.

On black shoes, particularly patent leather, white stitching is used to great extent in effective designs which add slimness to the foot.

Two-toned shoes, mostly in the single instep strap style are in the news. For Summer wear there are such combinations as white and pink and other pastel shades. Open toes are in the fashion spotlight, as is the asymmetrical look, usually achieved by the skilful combination of two leathers of contrasting colour.

Trim, neat and eye-catching is this shoe for the young girl. It has wide fringe effect at throatline of vamp and contrasting piping around sole.

Low-cut pump with single instep strap and gold-colored nail-head trim off-side on vamp. Right, just like Dad's, these neat-looking loafers for the teen-aged boy. Trim and well-made in polished leather.

Slim look backed by the boys

For the school and college crowd this Spring and Summer, whether on vacation, at work or on the campus, there is no shoe that holds more interest than the one or two-eyel oxford or moccasin.

The new low-top look continues this year. Many models are not as low cut as they were last year, but they still maintain that low slim look so fashionable today and in keeping with general fashion trends.

The Continental look that came over to this country a year ago is more popular with Canadians today than it ever was, with its slimmer look; lighter more flexible lines and soles and the new glove-soft leather, putting it way out in front of the men's shoe picture.

Soles are trimmed closer to the upper part of the shoe to enhance that slimmer look. Less stitching and decoration creates a more modern lean look that appeals to Canadian youth.

The low-top-line combined with inserts of nylon mesh, shantung or woven leathers will have wide appeal for the coming season.

The moccasin continues to be an increasingly important shoe style with the young man or the older man with young ideas, and should be tops for Spring and Summer wear.

Browns in varying shades and black will be important in the colour picture. Colour combination too will be a style factor, and in this category white, off-white and ivory tones will show up with dark and light browns, blues and blacks.

Young fry copy dad in low tops

Just like Dad, the Canadian boy this Spring and Summer will have new low-top shoes with one and two-eyel oxford presenting a cleaner, leaner look with less ornamentation.

The sleek trim lines have been achieved by the use of new tapered lasts in both dress and casual shoes.

The two-eyel oxford is among the top choices this coming season. It will be worn in grained leathers, perforated leathers and two-tone combinations.

Following closely behind this favourite is the moccasin in the new two-eyel version. The slip-on shoe without gores, sleek and slim looking, will also be a popular choice for Spring.

Historical sites are a part of nation's glory, tradition

By MAXIM T. GRAY

General Manager of Niagara Parks Commission

Joseph Howe, a famous Canadian statesman, has said that "A wise nation fosters national pride and love of country by perpetual reference to the sacrifices and glories of the past." This article will try to focus attention on the use of historic or archaeological sites in public parks.

The national parks administration in Canada is entrusted with the preservation, restoration and marking of places of national historical importance. Many of these are associated with stirring events in the nation's early history and include Indian earthworks, villages and portages, French and Spanish trading posts, forts and mission enterprises, sites connected with naval and military operations in the long struggle for possession and survival as a nation; others relate the economic, industrial and political development of the country.

Archaeological sites receive a different kind of consideration because they usually consist of existing things, uncovered by excavating, or discovered by surface observation and exposed more completely by excavating. These may be old Indian mounds or skeletons of prehistoric man or animals, and the work involved here is of a systematic descriptive nature and must be supported by scientific opinion and advice.

Many archaeological sites of the continent are discovered quite by accident, although the beginnings of the human race here are becoming better known as professional study of the subject proceeds. The painstaking work of excavation and examination is generally undertaken by university staffs and is usually in some case by public funds.

A good example of this work which is now going forward is the excavation and restoration work in connection with Huronia, an Indian village which flourished prior to 1649 at the southern end of Georgian Bay. Restoration work is going on; a museum has been established; an impressive martyrs' shrine constructed, and the place is one of the most popular in the province with visitors. A booklet of 80 pages, which describes very completely the early history of this area, including the vanished people, has been prepared by the Huronia Historic Sites and Tourist Association.

Yes, these things are popular with our people. There is really very little national history completely forgotten in our colorful and turbulent past, our military exploits of old forgotten, far-off things and battles long ago.

Park people, particularly, have an appreciation of the value of historic tradition. It is good to identify a park with an event or person of historic or national historic interest. Take a ride along the highways of Virginia in the United States for example, and you cannot fail to contemplate the eventful period of the War Between the States. Historical locations there are numerous. They are well marked. They are of interest to all visitors.

Along the Niagara Frontier, on both sides of the border, many monuments have been erected with suitable descriptive plaques at locations of this kind. While the 1812 War between Canada and the United States sprawled over half the continent, the majority of the land fighting took place in the Niagara area. The bloodiest and most decisive battles took place here. The Niagara Parks Commission maintains about 40 of these historical points of interest along its 35-mile extent of parkway. A drive off the main park roadway gives the visitor a chance to stop and read the inscription. No grass grows on this access driveway. The monument is set up on a grassy mound. From a maintenance standpoint and for better display, a stone base area would be more suitable.

Two substantial forts and a naval barracks have been restored on the Canadian side. On the U.S. side, the earliest old fort in the area (Fort Niagara) has been restored. It was first built by the French in 1726, later used by the British, and was maintained by the New York State Council of Parks, although operated by the Old Fort Niagara Association. Annually, a Flag Day ceremony is arranged at this place at which time the flags of the three nations are raised amid colorful pageantry.

At places as substantial as these, with a large visitor volume, uniformed guides are in attendance. At one of these forts, instead of guides a pamphlet is issued to each visitor in which the various buildings and things are described and designated as Point 1, Point 2, etc., and directional signs guide the visitor carefully to these points. This arrangement is, of course, in the interests of economy.

On the subject of commemorative monuments a parks commission remarked the other day that "We do too little of this kind of thing—the erection of monuments in our parks to the memory of the great and good people of our country."

The siting of these memorials is important. If it is a sculptured figure, the opinion of the artist might be valuable. Here again, the display is important. Once established, all of these places—historic sites, museums, memorial monuments—should be publicized, including the all important matter of location. By means of distinctive signs, show the way to get there.

Museums are of great value as attractions in parks. Committees sponsoring them should include authorities on artifacts, exhibits should be spacioously arranged, in show cases or otherwise, and every piece neatly and accurately labelled. A dozen small artifacts, such as a pioneer message as well as 5,000. Artifacts in a museum should be carefully inventoried from time to time. There is no harm in printing a pamphlet listing the exhibits but this is not important as proper labels on each artifact, such as a pioneer items should be kept in one area, military items in a separate area, and so forth. Museums are often conveniently established in a historic dwelling.

Search out places of historic significance. Secure the names and histories of outstanding people who have contributed greatly to the betterment of mankind and to economic progress in your own community. They need have no national reputation. Let the National Parks Department establish parks in areas of national interest. It should be the duty of the province to establish and develop parks which are primarily for use by the people of the region concerned.

Any historical site should have a significance and an inspirational value which is sharp and clear, at least in the eyes of the public. The reasons which make it so should be valid and pertinent ones and should be based on factual history. Because the visiting public is entitled to a recitation of facts, not dogmatic opinion, as to the historic circumstances, it is recommended that the report of a professional historian, unbiased by local association, should be secured.

At a suitable place in one of the more prominent parks in a community it is advantageous to erect a glass covered map, showing the location of the historic places in the community so that the visiting public may easily guide themselves. Governments are probably more interested now than ever before in the protection of archaeological and historic sites. The Province of Ontario passed the year Bill No. 66 which gives the department of government concerned authority to designate any land as an archaeological or historic site. It can appoint an advisory board to advise the Government on these matters and to issue permits for excavation work. But any excavation is good enough to focus attention on and beautify our parks.

Pet skunk falls to withering rifle bullets

PENTICTON — A defenseless, deodorized pet skunk fell before the withering onslaught of rifle bullets in a King Street yard and a nearby neighbor who thought he was dealing with a "fully-loaded" marauder faces police court charges.

The skunk, whose spraying equipment had been removed, had been raised since it was two weeks old by its now indignant owner, Richard Dickinson of Kilwinning Street.

It wandered in the neighborhood unobserved but strayed off into the yard of Charles Jacobson on King Street.

Herbert MacDonald, Penticton Avenue, who did the shooting, has been charged under a city bylaw with discharging a firearm within a prohibited area.

He admits the shooting but claims he didn't know the animal was a pet.

Leonard Tuncliff, a minor, found in possession of liquor, was fined $15 and costs. He was checked by an RCMP constable at Winfield.

The teen-ager's delight. This low-cut casual with moccasin vamp and inverted V throatline. In highly polished calf, it is ideal for slacks but goes equally well with skirts.

Local library circulation totals 8789

Readers in Kelowna and district were again busy during April, checking 8,789 books at the Kelowna Regional Library. This figure is 47 below the number of books taken out in the same time last year.

Adults took out 2180 non-fiction and 4539 fiction books for a total of 6,719. Juvenile readers accounted for the other 2,070.

Total of 105 new readers were registered, 61 adults and 44 juveniles, compared to the April, 1952 registration of 144.

The Kelowna Film Council has received films for May and June. They include: "The Children"; "Epidemic of Foot and Mouth Disease"; "Hansa Village"; and "The King who loved His Family".

The feminine look in new casual styles

Not so many years ago the casual shoe was sturdy and practical, with a heavy sole and good strong uppers which were not too pliable and were often a little hard on the feet.

Today the situation has changed considerably. Now, casual shoes are available in a variety of styles which are comfortable and kind to the feet, with just as much support and all the hard-wearing qualities of the casual of a few years ago.

The big changes in casual footwear, in addition to styling, are the leathers that are now being used. They are soft and glove-like, and have been so refined by improved tannages that they are a delight to wear. There is plenty of variety in texture too. There are suedes, shags, brushed leather, supple lightweight calfskins, both smooth and grained, aniline-dyed glove leathers, and for Summer wear, delightful little straws and Swiss braids.

The trim on today's casuals is high-fashion news. Little molded buckles in self or contrasting colour, acorn ties, lover's knots, fringe trim and hand stitching, often in a contrasting shade. All these trims add interest to the casual shoe. Give them a feminine but tailored appearance and lift them from the practical-only class into the realm of practical and beautiful.

The colour story is equally outstanding. In place of the basic black or tan, casual shoe now runs the gamut of all the popular town and country costume shades. It is a big hit in pastels, particularly for Summer wear, as well as the vivid glowing colours of Spring.

casual field with its slim pointed toes, narrow laces and squared-off heels. Other styles include shoes with high peaked vamps or low-cut curved soles. There are pointed toes and pancake heels to give a trim tailored look. Sometimes the colour of the sole and heel is picked up in pipings or stitched trim.

In planning your Spring and Summer shoe wardrobe do remember to include casual shoes. Nowadays, with so many activities demanding this type of footwear, they form an integral part of a well-chosen shoe wardrobe.

"New look" for spring and summer wear

An elegant pump with tubular binding in the new soft, supple construction. The elasticized cord around the shoe pulls snug and fits in a bow at centre of vamp.

Unusual in design, unusual in effect, this more covered-up version of the sandal. Built up on one side only, it is finished with plated vamp and instep strap.

The "fairy tale" look in lustre finish leathers

Lustre finished leathers are featured very strongly for both spring and summer wear. This finish gives an ideal complement to late day to black a blue-black pearl look extremely effective with the black as the closed pump will do much for an ensemble from noon to dusk, and give an ultra feminine appearance to the wearer.

flesh toned pinks, blues, both pale and mid tones, amber tones, yellows and greys all lend themselves well to this lustre finish, a soft glowing almost satin-like appearance.

Shoes in lustre finished leather will be a popular choice for the fashion conscious Canadian woman. The more dressy sandals, huilted, the tailored versions, such as the closed pump will do much for an ensemble from noon to dusk, and give an ultra feminine appearance to the wearer.

A neater, lighter look in shoes for youngsters

Left, for the spry young lad, a four-eyelet oxford with perforated vamp, giving a woven leather effect, for good ventilation in warm weather. Right, for the boy growing up here's a three-eyelet tie casual in tan brown with insert of white at vamp.

Sleek and slim are these low-top moccasins in crushed leather. An all-time favorite, this shoe has taken on a new look with a Continental air in this very slimmed-down version.

Shoe colors mated with new textiles

The color story for spring and summer footwear is not unlike a tale from the Arabian Nights. Shoes have taken a color in earnest, and now run the gamut from pastel tones with a fairy-like look, to sharp colors for definite contrast.

There's news in color for the coming season for you will see colors which have never appeared before in shoes.

Starting with early spring black, a perennial favorite will continue to hold its own. Black will appear in calf, kid, suede and patent leather often with sparkling white accents, or combined with one of the new brown tones.

The early spring season calls for suits and tailored dresses in light tweeds, fine worsted and nubby tweeds, as well as the new synthetic blends, and the predominating color in the textile collections is brown. It is only natural then that the tanning industry should place so much emphasis on the browns for the coming season.

The brown family, which lends itself to so many variations will be a top fashion choice for spring and summer. This color will appear in the palest beige and putty tones, through the benedictine and honey shades to the new softened tans and deep brown. There is a new look to many of the brown shades in the antique finishes which give a muted effect, and, of course, most of the brown tones now coordinate well with black and are often used as trim on a black shoe.

Colors such as orange and pink have been given a browned tone too, which gives them a rich look, easily co-ordinated with every basic shade from black and white through navy blue, brown and green.

To go very high-style, why not select one of the exquisite yellows. The pale off-yellow tones are ideal for spring and summer wear because of their pleasing affinity for navy, grey, moss green, beiges, pure white and black.

Muted tones of green, such as avocado and burnished moss will continue in popularity. Here again they go well with basic colors.

Wear the right shoe at the right time

Foot specialists say that the wearing of heel-less scuffs or worn-out rundown shoes around the house, accounts for a great many serious foot ailments. They account for the feeling of fatigue that often catches up with a woman around 11 a.m. or 4 p.m.

A comfortable shoe which gives plenty of support is as necessary to the homemaker as it is to a nurse or any worker who stands on her feet all day. So buy well-made shoes for your daily work. Change into a different pair for shopping and keep the high heeled dressy open shoes for social occasions. You'll be amazed to find how much more comfortable your feet will feel when you change shoes frequently.

Think twice about value of footwear

How would you measure the "value" of a pair of shoes? Some use the gauge of long wear. This, however, can prove a fallacy.

For example, an all-metal shoe or a Dutch wooden clog will far outwear the best pair of leather shoes. But neither will yield the perfect fit for walking comfort, nor does either possess the fashion-rightness demanded by today's living.

Westbank people affected by changes in power rates

WESTBANK—A revision of four of its six rate classifications was announced today by the B.C. Power Commission.

The rate adjustment—first general revision in the utility's 11-year history—will affect residential, commercial, power and primary power customers on all meter readings after June 1.

Though many customers, mostly in suburban areas which have built up in recent years, will have lower bills, net effect of the revisions will result in additional revenue from the commission's 62,000 customers.

Major reason for the revision is that the commission must develop power at today's costs to meet a doubling of its load in 1958 and a load in excess of three times its 1955 figure by 1961. Since it operates on a cost of service basis, revenue must be increased to meet the higher capital costs facing the commission.

Main feature of the revision is withdrawal of the 10 percent prompt payment discount privilege from all classes of service. This is in keeping with utility trends in recent years. At the same time, irrigation rates will be reduced so that the net cost of this service will remain unchanged.

Revisions have been made in certain of the "block" charges for monthly energy consumption, some upward, some down. There is no blanket increase in rates, but rather an extensive simplification of rate schedules so that all charges will be more directly related to the cost of service.

MINIMUM BILLS
Minimum bills have been reduced to $1.00 for residential customers whose minimums now are $2.00 or $3.00 (if a major appliance such as a range is installed). Monthly minimum of $2.00 for commercial customers who are on a two kilowatt demand is reduced to $1.00. Special minimum bills now in effect in certain of the smaller, somewhat isolated districts remain unchanged.

In the residential class there is no increase in the kilowatt hour charge for the three consumption blocks, but a fourth block has been added in order that homes with extremely high monthly consumption, such as electrically-heated dwellings, are assessed for the additional service they require.

In many districts, there are reductions in the first and second blocks of monthly consumption, and in all cases, the third residential block remains unchanged at one cent. The fourth residential block will be 1½¢ per kwh, except in some high-cost isolated areas where the rate will be 2½¢.

In the commercial classification, first monthly consumption block is unchanged in most districts, reduced in some; second block is unchanged; the third block is increased in most districts.

COMMERCIAL RATE
The third consumption block in the commercial rate will be higher in the smaller centres than in the bigger, more densely populated cities and villages. Commercial customers who heretofore have had a low (half-cent) third block rate now will pay more, under a rate which is considered to be more equitable, since demands on the utility's system by commercial firms are considerably higher than those of residential consumers.

In the "power" class, there are lower rates in the first consumption block in some areas, and it is unchanged in most districts; a few districts have slight increases in the second block, and all but two small districts will pay more for the third block of energy used each month. Primary power consumers will pay one-quarter of a cent per kwh, more in the third consumption block with the first and second blocks remaining unchanged. Dis-

Membership in Westbank credit union increases

WESTBANK—Membership in the Westbank Credit Union, according to reports presented at the last meeting, is up so far this year from 106 to 113.

The board of directors consider this a favorable increase in the "time for the district served by the union. The loan committee was of the opinion that the time at their disposal for the consideration of Art Jackson for last week's consumer applications for loans was rather short, and the board would appreciate the filing of such applications by Friday at the latest to ensure their being adjudicated by Monday evening. It was felt that the apparent lack of interest in double indemnity endorsement policy now available through the union was due to lack of understanding of its principal features by the public.

Convention guests asked not to abuse courtesy stickers

Convention delegates to Kelowna, even though they receive courtesy stickers for their automobiles, will be asked not to abuse the privilege. This point was made clear by Ald. Art Jackson at last week's council meeting. He made the comment after the Shriners requested stickers for 500 delegates. The Shriners will invade Kelowna next month for their Regatta City Ceremonial. Council has set up a special committee to assist convention officials. There are more than six million Boy Scouts in the world. They are found in 57 different countries.

Mrs. Coldham then served a delicious lunch bringing the afternoon to a close.

Major and Mrs. K. C. Tallyour spent an enjoyable ten days motor trip, returning to Trepanier last Tuesday afternoon. They drove to Vancouver, then south to several American cities going as far as Palm Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ewer have been spending a week in Vancouver visiting with their son "Bud" and his family.

Be fashion correct—but be comfortable

For healthy feet and a happy disposition it is essential that a woman's basic shoe wardrobe include a variety of shoes and heel heights to be worn at the proper time for the proper occasion.

If you wish to be fashion-correct and comfortable on your feet you should have one pair of well-made shoes on a medium heel for work at home. One pair of medium heel tie shoes for walking or shopping.

One pair of pumps for afternoon wear. One pair of sandals or dressy shoes on a high heel for after-five occasions. Two pairs of play shoes—one a sturdy type to wear with slacks or skirts, another of the more dressy variety, possibly on a wedge heel.

YOUTH REMANDED

Wayne Robert Olson, 19, has been formally charged with indecent assault on a 13-year-old girl, following preliminary hearing here last week. He was released on $1,000 bail. The alleged offence is said to have taken place in a car behind the tie shoes for walking or shopping.

A new era for Canadian air transportation is forecast by Trans-Canada Air Lines' planned purchase of swift jet airliners. Four Douglas DC-8s are on order and an option taken on two more. These airliners are capable of carrying 120 passengers and three tons of cargo at a cruising speed of approximately 550 miles an hour. The big planes will be powered by British Rolls-Royce Conway turbo-jet engines of the by-pass type and will be able to fly from Vancouver to Toronto in four hours and 10 minutes and from Montreal to London, Eng., in six hours and 10 minutes. The DC-8s will be delivered in early 1960 and will be used on trans-Atlantic and transcontinental routes later in the year.

RE-NAMING PARK

To the Editor,
Kelowna Courier

Dear Sir:

Appropos of the suggestion to re-name the City Park, having been one of the original park commissioners I have always taken a keen interest in our park and fail to see any good reason to re-name it because whatever it may be called it will always be known as the "City Park" distinguished from the other parks which are all named, such as "Strathcona" and "Sutherland", etc.

I therefore suggest that this matter be left well alone.

Yours truly,
H. C. S. COLLETT

PARK NAMING

The Editor,
Kelowna Courier

Dear Sir:

Having watched the development of our city park for the past 40 years, I think it is fitting to rename it at this time when it is undergoing such an improvement.

During the past year, development of the park has been gradual. However, in the past two years we have seen much care, thought and hard work put into its development, resulting in a natural attractive City Park which we, as citizens, should be very proud of.

As in all phases of work certain individuals stand out as having contributed more than their share and the people of Kelowna are no exception.

My suggestion for the new name of the City Park would be "Parkson".

Yours truly,
AN OLDTIMER

RELIGIOUS SECTS

The Editor,
Kelowna Courier

Dear Sir:

Any religious denomination, or sect that claims and makes a definite statement, that it is against God's laws to let a medical practitioner give a blood transfusion, is nothing more than a direct theological misinterpretation, misconstruction, or misreading of the Bible. The biblical passages which give reference to the eating of animal blood; neither God nor Moses is making reference to cannibalism.

Of all the food prohibited by the Mosaic law, animal blood is reckoned in the first place, that prohibition being as old as the deluge, for God, having immediately after the deluge, had given Noah the liberty of eating the flesh of animals, as is most generally supposed, and forbid at the same time, under very severe threatnings, the eating not only the blood itself, but the flesh also mixed with it; that is to say, of any animal, either strangled, or killed by any other way than by drawing the blood thoroughly from the carcass.

Accordingly, we find it no less expressly forbidden by Moses, in several places, not only to the Israelites, but to the strangers that lived among them, even under pain of death. God seems even to put it on the level with sacrificing one's feed to Moloch. (Lev. 17). The deity of the Ammonites to whom human sacrifices were offered when he threatens to set his face against him that transgresses, in either case, which expression is not used in any other prohibition, now get this, this is not used in any other prohibition. God is pleased to give a new reason for this interdiction; namely, that it is the blood, which is also the life of the victim.

The literal translation, and the reason given in the text, is that the blood is the life of the animal; by which is meant, that no animal can live without it. But it is not improbable, the end and design of this prohibition was, that it might be a kind of acknowledgement that our privilege for killing, and eating the flesh of those living creatures, is not derived to us from the law of nature, which counts rather to be against it, but from an express permission from the author of nature.

And this seems to be the reason why it was not only enforced by the Mosaic Law, but, also retained by the Gospel, and intimated to its Prohibitory from Gentileism, to convert from Heathenism, or Paganism.

This law is still strictly observed at some churches, not by virtue of the law of Moses, but of the apostles.

It is true that human blood, although to Christ has been used for the atonement of sin, but on the other hand, if God knew anything about blood transfusions as we know it today, it is a sure certainty, God never gave Moses any laws against the use of blood transfusions when he carved out the decalogue, nor is there any mention of it in the Pentateuch, that is to say, the first five books of the old testament.

In conclusion, if this was to be a Mosaic law, Moses would not have made a mere reference to such a law. It would have been included probably in the Decalogue. (ten commandments). Today in our religious system of doctrines and precepts, we would have eleven commandments—thou shalt not give or take human blood; for it is the life.

Accordingly, the talmud contains roughly 365 negative laws and 248 affirmative laws. This is referred to as the Ha-thorah, the law, i.e. thou shalt or shalt not. This fails to give a law against transfusions in any sense or form.

NEW MUSEUM BUILDING

The Editor,
Kelowna Courier

Dear Sir:

Once more the old perennial question of a new museum building is before us and this time there should be no further delay. The museum association has labored valiantly and with remarkable success under most trying handicaps for the past three years and it certainly is no more than fair that the taxpayers now take an interest in the preservation and proper display of the many priceless historical relics and other interesting specimens now crowded into the present entirely unsuitable quarters.

Forming a major portion of this problem is the rapid and disastrous shrinkage of the advantages and facilities of the City Park, occasioned by the construction through some of its most valuable area of approach to the new bridge. The foresight of our early city fathers in times when a high degree of optimism was the only substitute for non-existent financial resources, demonstrated by the provision for future generations and an expanding population of a large, spacious, and beautiful grounds now widely known as the site of The Kelowna Regatta, is being largely discounted by the invasion of the new bridge approach, the destruction of trees and the replacement of lawns and gardens by uninviting black-top paving.

What remedy can be offered? None of any kind has so much as been suggested except the one brought forward by the museum association. This is that we add the entire area upon which the old museum and the board of trade building now stand to the city park, remove all old buildings, except the board of trade building, and build a new and suitable museum building on this site. The new building should be set back from the street and the area should be planted to trees and gardens. Seats should be installed along this additional five hundred feet of beach, and the view of the lake opened up to the public.

This additional property is all owned by the taxpayers so the cost of this vast improvement would not be excessive. We, as taxpayers, will make the mistake of our lives if we ever allow control of this beautiful park land to pass into other hands or permit the construction of any sort of business premises to obstruct the view of the lake from the lower end of Bernard Avenue.

Surely, a bylaw to provide funds for this highly desirable improvement could not reasonably be turned down by the taxpayers.

this golfer kicked the bucket....

This golfer kicked the bucket and soon arrived at the Pearly Gates. St. Peter checked him in and asked him what he'd worked at before he left earth. The golfer said "I was a golf pro."

St. Peter: "Well . . . you should like is here as we have some real fancy golf courses. The only trouble is—most of them are crowded. We have one here tho' that no one plays on. The qualifications of this course are apparently too stiff."

Golfer: "What are the qualifications?"

St. Peter: "There are two. The first is that you have never cheated in a golf game, and, the second that you've never used a swear word."

Golfer: "I can truthfully say that I've never cheated but I do remember a time when I swore."

St. Peter: You had better tell me about it."

Golfer: "Well . . . one day I was tied with Ben Hogan at the end of the 17th hole in a winner take all match. Ben stepped up onto the 18th tee and drove a beautiful drive about 300 yards down the fairway. My drive sliced into some trees."

St. Peter: "Was it then that you swore?"

Golfer: "Nope. My shot out of the rough was real good, but it hit a spectator and rolled into the sand trap just off the green."

St. Peter: "Surely it was then that you swore?"

Golfer: "Nope not then either. Ben's second shot came to rest about twenty feet from the flag. I then played my third shot with a sand wedge and it actually rimmed the cup before moving off about six inches. Ben putted and missed his third . . ."

St. Peter: interrupts "Jumpin' grasshoppers . . . don't tell me you missed a six inch putt?"

What's the moral to this tale? None that we know of. All we want to tell you is that we're pretty busy these days, and advertising copy should be in early in the week for Thursday's paper. If it is late we can't do a good job on the layout for you, and besides . . . the production foreman swears at us. He's even taken' to the whip!

Council of women wants apples included in school children's lunch programs

As a result of interest aroused by L. G. Butler's talk to the Kelowna Council of Women last month concerning the possible uses of surplus products of this valley, a resolution dealing with one aspect of such use was handed to members at this month's meeting for study by associated organizations.

The resolution points out that the substantial production and occasional surplus of apples in the Okanagan and Kootenay valleys often cannot be readily sold on the open market; whereas it is deemed advisable that the growers of these valleys should be encouraged to continue the promotion of the apple-growing industry.

Continuing the resolution also points out that many school children in Canada are denied apples because of the present high cost of production, and that the consumption of apples by our own people should be facilitated, especially in areas on the prairies where wheat problems have curtailed farmers' purchasing power.

It is therefore asked that the Provincial Council of Women (B.C.) and the National Council of Women should petition their respective governments to purchase and distribute apples for school children's lunches in such quantities that each school child should have at least one apple a day, for at least one month in each year, or continued until the surplus inventories are absorbed.

Reporting for the clothing depot, the convener of that committee said that the need of clothing had fallen off due to warmer weather, adding that sometimes certain articles quite unsuitable for handing out, were turned in, in a small percentage of which proved to be quite worthless. A limited quantity can be sold at a rummage sale and the proceeds used to buy new articles of clothing.

Local hospital fair outstanding success as hard-working women make $1,000

Lady Luck smiled on members of the hospital auxiliaries last week as glorious Okanagan sunshine drew a huge crowd to the hospital fair and tea.

The shady trees and green lawns, the band in vivid red, the lively music, all provided the "garden party" atmosphere that makes this spring bazaar so different and unique.

The party mood was much in evidence as hundreds of relaxed, happy shoppers strolled in a leisurely fashion from booth to booth, then sat down to listen to the band music and enjoy a cup of tea.

The cash register tinkled merrily throughout the time of $1,000 profit which the junior auxiliary tallied up at the end of the day. In addition, the senior auxiliary served tea to 500 women and convener Mrs. Cameron Day reported a profit of $140.00.

GUESTS WELCOMED

The hospital fair was opened at 2 o'clock, when Mr. J. I. Monteith, chairman of the Kelowna Hospital Society, welcomed visitors to the hospital and grounds which were then to the public in recognition of Hospital Day.

Mrs. Ron Prosser, president of the Junior Hospital Auxiliary and convener of the fair, also said a few words of welcome, as did Mrs. J. Taylor, president of the senior Hospital Auxiliary. Then the rush was on as "early bird" shoppers descended on the home cooks, handicrafts and white elephant booths while selections were at their peak.

The home cooking booth, convened by Mrs. R. Lupton, was, as usual, one of the first to sell out. The demand was especially brisk for prize-winning entries from the home cooking contest, the winner of the contest, which was judged by dietitian Mrs. R. Dillabough, each took home a prize food hamper.

The Winfield booth, convened by Mrs. Gordon Shaw, realized a profit of $90.00. This was considered an outstanding success as this was the first fair at which the Winfield members presided over a booth of their own.

Auxiliary members found that some of their best customers belonged to the kindergarten crowd and the safety-pin set. An unusual number of these cherubs put in an appearance at the fair, many of them dressed in their Sunday best and thereby adding another picturesque touch to the affair.

These busy little customers bought almost 250 balloons, 320 fish pond prizes, quantities of ice cream and home-made candies as well as gallons of orange crush and apple juice. They seemed to be having a wonderful time as there was plenty of room for them to run around the hospital grounds without crowding anyone.

MANY HELPERS

Mark Rose and his high school band provided perhaps the most attractive feature of the fair each year. Their dashy uniforms do much to brighten the scene while their colorful music adds verve and gaiety to the whole affair.

Mrs. Prosser felt that a special "Thank You" was due Mr. Rose and the band members who attend year after year on a voluntary basis.

Mrs. J. C. Templar was in charge of balloons, clowns and teacup readers. She had near-professional help from Mrs. R. Keller and Mrs. F. DeHart, Mrs. T. F. McWilliams, Mrs. J. Appleton and Mrs. H. F. Papp.

Among the hardest working members of the committee were Mrs. Ron Prosser, convener; Mrs. R. Rhodes, secretary of the fair; Mrs. A. S. Matthews, convener of handicrafts and her assistant, Mrs. A. E. Walters.

Mrs. E. Popham was fair cashier, Mrs. T. McLaughlin, head of the grounds committee, Mrs. C. Brunette, convener of the ice cream and cold drinks stall, Mrs. G. Bennett of the fish pond, Mrs. B. Trump of the candy booth.

Mrs. L. Watson was in charge of the cooking contest, Mrs. R. Kelly of the plant stall, Mrs. M. Utley of the white elephant booth. Mrs. F. Kelly was in charge of raffles and

Full itinerary for CARS head during visit

The latest field trip through the interior of Miss Mary Pack, executive secretary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, was occupied with the usual full itinerary. Her visit to Kelowna was no exception. She met with the executive of the women's auxiliary in the afternoon, and the luncheon at the Royal Anne was attended by CARS and WA members, as well as representatives of interested service clubs. Later she visited hospital patients and recorded an interview at CICOV.

Dinner at the home of the local Stagnette Club followed at the Royal Anne, after which she addressed the girls and answered questions. The following morning was taken up with local physiotherapist, Miss June Williams, at the clinic and in visiting patients in their homes.

In the afternoon she attended the fair at the arena, where she inspected the CARS booth which exhibited handicrafts of arthritic patients. The remainder of the afternoon was taken up in trying to place two recovered patients in jobs. One, a 21-year-old stenographer, who received intensive treatment at the Centre in Vancouver, is now perfectly capable of handling any office job, requiring no more than two hours typing a day. She is an excellent bookkeeper. The other, a young man with a family, is in need of a steady job, preferably driving, although quite naturally he can no longer do heavy work. Experience has proven that these rehabilitated patients provide higher than average ability in their work. Anyone with information leading to employment of these two young people is asked to contact Miss June Williams at the hospital clinic, 3414, during the day, or 3691 after 5 p.m.

New pitcher arrives

Kelowna Orioles break jinx by downing Oliver 12-9 after losing four straight

When a baseball team in any league loses four games in a row, that team is bound to win a game, and will most likely have a surprise or two lined up.

Kelowna broke their losing streak, taking a 12-9 decision, after coming back from a 9-2 deficit. The surprise was, six foot five inch, Ken Larson, the Orioles new pitcher, who started the game, but was relieved by Les Schaeffer in the fourth. Ken had not played a game this year before coming here, and will need a few stiff workouts to get into shape.

Al Schaeffer's second league homer of the year in the sixth inning brought in two runs, besides himself, and he scored the tying run.

Cec Favell, Al Schaeffer and Al Blinston each picked up three runs for the redbirds, with Kielbiski, Greg Jablonski and Les Schaeffer each getting one marker.

DOUBLE PLAY
Cec Favell had a good day apart from his runs too. He batted three for five, and made five putouts, a surprising number for the right field position. He also made an assist on a double play.

Three Oliver pitchers faced the Orioles, Bill Martino going five innings, Radies lasting 2½ innings and Snider chucking the remaining ½ inning.

Ken Larson, Kelowna's leadoff pitcher lasted 3½ innings, giving up seven runs on four hits and seven bases on balls. He struck out three. Les Schaeffer, winning pitcher, gave up no runs, two hits, two bases on balls, and made no strikeouts.

Oliver got all their runs in the first four innings, two in the first, three in the second and two apiece in the third and fourth.

Kelowna started in the second with Blinston and Al Schaeffer each making a round-trip. Redbirds then waited till the fourth to get any more points. With the bases loaded, Greg Jablonski hit a beautiful line-drive, which was caught by the bringing home Kielbiski and Favell.

In the fifth inning, Al Blinston, who received free ticket to first, came home on a sacrifice fly by Hank Tostenon.

FATAL INNING
The sixth proved to be fatal for Oliver. Both Cec Favell and Jablonski were on base when Al Schaeffer lifted a 360-foot homer over the left field fence, tying the score at 9-9.

The redbirds held Oliver down for the next two innings, then produced a four run rally in the eighth. Cec Favell got to first on a single, followed by Al Schaeffer and Al Blinston. The first two came home on Les Schaeffer's single. Les and Al in turn came home on Roamy Ito's double.

Adanacs out-hit Jay Rays for 14-10 victory

Rutland Adanacs out-hit Kamloops Jay Rays two to one on Sunday afternoon, in their regular Interior League fixture played in the northern city, pulling through with a 14-10 win, as the two Ads hurlers handed out a total of 22 walks.

Kamloops' moundman, Prehara, let six men take a walk, as the Ads clubbed him successfully 17 times, but the Rutland hurlers were much kinder to the Jay Rays, both Reed and Hickson walking 11 men, for a game total of 28 walks altogether.

Aside from their erratic hurling, the two Ad pitchers managed to hold the Kamloops team down to eight hits, for ten runs. Five errors by Kamloops and six passed balls helped the Rutland boys on the victory route, also.

Both infields worked well, with the edge in outfield going to Rutland. Rutland's base running was another factor in the win, with all six stolen bases in the game being credited to them.

Reed started on the mound for the Ads, with the Ads holding a first inning, three run lead. Pitching 3½ innings, he walked in three runs, before he retired in favor of Hickson.

The Ads came through with three more runs in the top of the third to make the game 6-3 in their favor, and Hickson blanked the Kamloops nine that inning, let in one in the fifth and sixth. Rutland picked up four, and blanked them in the fourth, and blanked them in the two in the top of the sixth, and five in the top of the seventh, leaving them a commanding 13-4 lead going into the bottom of the seventh.

Kamloops got to Hickson in the seventh, however, taking four walks and clutching four hits, for six runs, to put them back into the picture.

Hickson tightened up again, however, and blanked Jay Rays for the next two, with Ads picking up one run.

Kelowna Figure Skating club looks back on active year

At the annual meeting of the Kelowna Figure Skating Club, held recently, a strong executive was formed for the coming year. This committee included members experienced in the club, together with parents of juniors who form a big proportion of the membership.

E. H. Oswell was elected president, and R. C. Gore, vice-president. Other officers are Mrs. R. E. Flower, recording secretary, June Orwell, corresponding secretary. The position of treasurer remains to be filled.

Directors are Tony Griffin, Mrs. B. Jennings, Mrs. M. Busch, Mrs. E. Hill, Mrs. N. McKenzie and Mrs. E. Selber.

E. R. F. Dodd, who filled the position of president of the club, following the resignation of Roy Stolz, noted in his report, the success achieved by the club members in the Okanagan Mainline Championships, where the club had almost swept the board, not only in the senior classes but also in the juvenile events. He said among the many junior members there is a lot of excellent material who would undoubtedly honorably fill the shoes of the present seniors as they move on. In this connection the president said how pleased he was to hear that Monica Hill had been accepted by the Shubert and Johnson's Ice Palace, and said she would be badly missed at club carnivals.

The club carnival was a success from the skating and costuming point of view, although the attendance continued its downward trend which became noticeable two years ago. This, together with a reduction in membership was causing considerable worry.

Mr. Dodd felt that the basis of the club would always be the junior membership, and he welcomed the presence of a number of parents of juniors at the meeting. The new executive will have to give careful thought to the requirements of juniors. Some form of supervision, both on and off the ice seemed to be wanted most, he said.

A new professional is required, and in order to get one with good qualifications, it would doubtless be necessary to work with one of other valley clubs. While it is not likely that the club will be able to afford a pro with the highest qualifications, every effort will be made to obtain one with good style, as this is so important for beginners.

The club has given a good account of itself in the Penitence and Summerland carnivals, where members participated in skating events. The official association tests passed by members during the season

Definite approval has been given to this year's Kelowna Golden Jubilee, Kelowna to sponsor the junior and senior Canadian Water Ski Championships. The Okanagan Valley division of the CWSA will supply officials for the competition, which will be held on the first two days of the regatta, August 8-9.

Vernie Ahrens, regional director of the association, will be in charge of the official supervision. The association is affiliated with the American Water Ski Association, and the World Water Ski Federation.

J. Henry Fletcher, Lake Stevens, Wn. ski enthusiast and boatman, said in a letter to Mr. Ahrens, "The last year (last year) did as splendid a job as I have ever witnessed."

Speaking for the other Washington state entries, he said "Kelowna's hospitality was wonderful, accommodations and refreshments well organized, entertainment for contest well thought out. We are looking forward to another thoroughly enjoyable week in Kelowna in 1956."

Not exactly a minnow!

The trout shown above, held by Bill Treadgold, is the largest fish caught to date in the fish derby being run by the Treadgold brothers, owners of a sporting goods store. The contest lasts until September, with weekly, monthly and grand prizes. The fish shown above, 8 lbs., 12 oz., was caught by Frank Oliver of Kelowna on the Shuswap Lake, with a Mercury Minnow. Close behind him was Shuo Yamaoka of Kelowna, with one fish 7 lbs., 13 oz., and two over 6 lbs., also caught on the Shuswap Lake. All four fish were caught over the holiday weekend.

ANGLE-LORE
Where and how to get the best fishing
By JIM TREADGOLD

(Editor's Note—As a service to anglers, The Kelowna Courier carries this fishing column, by one of the district's best authorities, every Thursday. Mr. Treadgold will welcome reports from anyone. The more co-operation, the more information can be passed on to others.)

Pine, warm weather combined on out over the holiday. Road okay. The lakes at McCollough have all been fished and best reports are coming in from the main dam at the McCollough Station. Gordon McKay and Bruce Moir report a catch of 19 trout from the dam with the largest being 2 lbs., caught on flies and small spinning lures. The

The warm weather we have been enjoying for the past while has activated the fish and their feed after the long winter, and the success of anglers and trollers alike can be answered for these reasons. Travel, also, has been better, with the woods and roads in the hills drying out so much quicker as the result of the weather, making it possible to get at the more inaccessible lakes.

Okanagan Lake reports are very good, with some good-sized trout taken. W. R. Maxson and G. W. Butler brought in some fine catches, the largest being 6 lbs., fishing the Bay-Bear Creek area, using the willow leaf troll. Bob Williams has also taken some limits and good-sized trout, his largest being 4½ lbs., using Lyman Yellow Flatties and the Small Flatfish.

Spinning reports from the McCollough Landing area have been good for so early in the season. A few have tried the rocks at Wilson's Landing and Nahun with fair success. There is now a boat rental at Wilson's Landing, which will be very useful for anyone wishing to fish the rocks in the area. Surprisingly good and catch on of the fish in the Okanagan has been the keynote to date, but the warm weather should drive them down eventually, meaning the end of the run of good fishing here.

Early reports from Beaver Lake were very good, but reports from the weekend were spotty. Vince Curran and John Strachan reported the limit catches on opening day, using Black-o-Lindsay fly and light spinner and worm, averaging half pound fish. The road is in very good condition.

Reports from Dee Lake are very good with two parties taking limits on Alben Lake in a few hours on small red and white Dick Mite wobbler, the largest being 3 lbs. Mrs. Sexsmith took her limit on Leon Lake in two hours, averaging 12-14 inches, using red-bodied Carey fly and the Dick Mite wobbler.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keith and daughter landed 26 fish at Dorcen Lake on the weekend using the willow troll and the Dick Mite, with the tops going 3 lbs. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keith accounted for 19 on Dorcen, up to 3½ lbs., using the Dick Mite wobbler.

Peatill Lake reports are very good with many limit catches reported—about 700 are reported taken.

been made to have the Pacific north-west rooming championships here this year, again, but it is understood that both Vancouver and Victoria are in favor of the plan.

Rovettes rally in sixth inning to defeat Aces

Rutland Rovettes came through in the sixth inning of their Friday night encounter with the Super-Valu Aces, clouting in six runs to steal the ball game from their senior "B" opponents by a 9-8 score.

The two girls' teams are Kelowna's only entries in the female side of the softball picture this year, and will have to play exhibition ball until the play-offs, with the Rovettes going into the junior play-offs and Aces representing senior "B".

Katie Oswetski started on the mound for Rovettes, but was yanked in the second in favor of Phyllis Ramsey, after she had walked five batters, and the Aces were ahead 3-0.

Olive Pope went the distance for the Aces, pitching good ball, until the game blew up in the sixth.

Both teams were blanked in the first inning, but the Aces got to Oswetski in the second, bringing in three runs on wild pitching. Rovettes steadied down with Ramsey in and tied up the score in the third, blanking the Aces.

Aces scored twice in the fourth and three in the fifth, and it looked like their ball game, with the score 8-3 in their favor, and two innings to go.

Rovettes came through with a splash in the sixth, upsetting the game, and setting the final score at 9-8, as the last innings went scoreless.

Dorothy Hartman was the big hitter for the Rovettes, getting a three-bagger and a single, with Barbara Marshall next with two singles. Pope, Aces' hurler, helped her game with two hits.

Now retired

Former game warden Leon Jobin has excellent collection of ancient relics around his home

By DOROTHY GELLATLY
A handsomely engraved tray, inscribed, "Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jobin. In appreciation. From the Williams Lake High School Students 1955" was proudly displayed by Mr. Jobin when I called at their home here, they having come to Kelowna last year to retire, after a lifetime spent by Mr. Jobin as a game warden in B.C., twenty-five of which were spent at Williams Lake.

This silver trophy was given both as a citizen award and for Mr. and Mrs. Jobin's presentation to the school of the nucleus of a museum of anthropological and biological specimens. A collection that is known as the Leo Jobin Museum of Natural History, in recognition of this outstanding naturalist, who gave this collection of hundreds of specimens to the students of School District 27—to all of whom it is available for study.

Then there are the commodious cabinets wherein are kept the hundreds of specimens Mr. Jobin still has; cabinets on which are inscribed, "Presented to Leo Jobin by the 150 Mile Stock Association for killing four wolves, in January 1949."

TIMBER WOLVES
Questions concerning these predatory animals caused Mr. Jobin to bring forth a striking photograph depicting three of these wolves superimposed against the rugged background of the Fraser river in that part of the country.

The timber wolves thus shown are three of the four which so plagued the ranchers of Cariboo and Chilcotin that they pooled a $1,000 reward to be given to whoever could put a stop to their predations.

Game warden Jobin finally got all four with poisoned bait. Skeletons and pelts were sent to the Los Angeles Country Museum where three of them were mounted and posed against a backdrop of the Fraser River, their native hunting ground. In the canyon far below may be seen a herd of deer against the snow, and so natural is the attitude of these wolves that one almost hears the howls of victory with which they proclaim the finding of their prey preparatory to closing in for the kill.

An abomination to ranchers, wolves are anathema to natives. Mr. Jobin said, and are to be avoided like the plague. Even to touch the hide of one will bring bad luck, or worse still, death; for to the Indian, the wolf is the "spirit" of all bad Indians, and Mr. Jobin mentioned instances where, to the aboriginal mind, at least, death had quite naturally been based on this superstition.

INDIAN HOME
Going back to primitive times Mr. Jobin explained in detail a scale drawing of an Indian home or lodge—a "keekwillie" house—the spelling of which is doubtless incorrect; but as Mr. Jobin was unable to give the correct spelling this will have to do. Describing the plan of this underground house, Mr. Jobin pointed out that it might have been 700 or well over a 1,000 years old—for beneath the roots of a fir tree that not only had grown to a girth of three feet through the centre of the house itself, but had fallen and rotted away—he'd found a fine stone knife, beautifully fashioned.

This underground house measured some twenty feet across, with its umbrella-shaped roof flush with the ground. The centre opening of the roof was used both for leaving and entering, and for escaping smoke from the cooking and heating, a pole reaching through the centre was "notched with a stone axe for climbing.

From all appearances the house was divided into separate areas, with one area for sleeping, and apparently the Indians always faced west during sleep. The northeast area was the workshop; the southeast for fuel storage and the south for garbage, which, when enough had accumulated was covered with a layer of sand, with another layer of garbage over that, and so ad infinitum. Human bones were occasionally found in these garbage

Responsibility of boards of trade to provide leadership to develop country, says Chamber director

VERNON—The people of British Columbia have reached the stage in their development where they are empire building on the grand scale. But they need leadership and it is the responsibility of boards of trade to provide that leadership. Boards have in their ranks men of talent, wisdom, experience and understanding and they must accept the mantle of responsibility for shaping the destiny of the province.

Those statements were made here by J. K. Melville, guest speaker at a meeting of the Okanagan and Main Line Associated Boards of Trade.

Mr. Melville is advertising manager of Home Oil Distributors, part of the Lower Mainland Associated Boards of Trade and currently a director of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

Most corporations in B.C., large or small, were recognizing more and more seriously their responsibility for being good corporate citizens of the province, Mr. Melville said.

"If there is to be efficiency and vision," he said, "the responsibility is very keenly on the shoulders of business men."

CRITICAL PEOPLE
"I haven't much patience with people who criticize enthusiasts who do work in their own orbits, transforming enthusiasm into objective action."

"I would rather see that than organizations which devote their activities exclusively to proclamations and vast generalities about subjects far afield."

"Our board of trade organizations, acting in concert, are serving the best interests of communities and provinces, and they must ultimately achieve results which will be of benefit not only to business men and citizens of their own communities, but to all part of Canada."

Mr. Melville described what he called "potentially useful work to justify interest of citizens in the activities of the boards of trade."

"We know that the history of civilization moving steadily west—civilization moving steadily west—salted salmon to canned salmon.

There has been a basic evolution in the mining industry, from coal to mercury and other minerals.

Mr. Melville now saw that "instead of exporting two-thirds of our primary products, increasingly we are going to have a big impact in the development of secondary and manufacturing industries in this province."

Secondary industries were going to develop. The trend was "tremendously significant."

One of the yardsticks of the prosperity of a country, he said, was the ratio between production and importing of raw materials, compared with production of manufactured goods.

In that regard, Belgium had set the international lead; her total of manufactured goods was nine times her imports of raw materials and manufactured goods. In the U.S. and U.K., the proportion was only about two to one.

Another yardstick of progressive nations was the development of their energy resources. The U.K., for instance, had been built up primarily on the development of energy—the availability of coal and development of a canal system had together.

"Here in B.C., we have immense opportunities in the field of energy resources," Mr. Melville repeated.

GAS PIPELINE

He outlined specifically a natural gas pipeline, oil pipeline and development of a refining industry. Concerning natural gas, he said that 600 million cubic feet would equal the output of energy of the Grand Coulee and Boulder dams combined.

"This natural gas line will bring a new standard of living," he predicted.

In addition to natural gas, there were the hydro resources of the Yukon, Klutina, Mica Creek and the Canadian portion of the Columbia River, to be exploited.

However, there would be a clash between fisheries interest and hydro interests and "we must avoid building these high level dams on the fishery streams until we are finally forced to make the choice between fisheries and hydro."

Mica Creek, of course, was a "must."

"Why the boards of trade in this area aren't working day and night to see the dam built," he said, "I can't understand."

"It means employment for 300,000 people, that's what it means."

A further important factor was communications.

"The PGE is one of the most wonderful things that has ever happened to B.C. Mr. Melville enthused. Something like 28 per cent of the land area is going to be opened up by this railway. Gas and coal would be made available. The problem of communications was being overcome; in four years, the highway to Prince George and out to Prince Rupert would be blacktopped throughout; "it is going to transform the face of this country."

Mr. Melville advised members of the trade boards that "when you take stands on building of highways and so on, it is basically a fundamental course of action that is most important to the development of B.C."

Another overall problem boards must "bear in the back of their minds at all times today" was that of settlement.

Today, B.C. had 1,300,000 people, about four to the square mile; the United Kingdom had more than 500 people to the square mile; 60 per cent of B.C.'s population lived in the Lower Mainland.

Settlement involved the decentralization of industry, not a simple matter.

These problems are tremendous, inherent in our geography, economy, in political economy and in plain politics," he said.

"We have got to live with it, but politics always will be a problem."

Involved, too, was planning—planning for more churches, for more recreational facilities, more zoning regulations.

"We know the climate for opportunity in B.C. is ripe at the present time," he went on.

NEW INVESTMENTS

"Capital investment in B.C. is coming from all over the world and it can't have any patience— it doesn't belong to any political party—with people who criticize money because it comes from a certain country."

"It is international, it is like water which will flow to the place where it will get the best return."

"We can control how it is manipulated in this province once it comes here."

"This year, there will be exactly 50 per cent more capital investment than there was in the province last year."

There had been an average investment over the years of $800 million; in 1952, the total would be $1,250 million—"and that is twice the rate of increase of any other province in Canada."

It had been said in the Gordon report, Mr. Melville went on, that B.C.'s population would be more than three million by 1955; "but I think that is a very conservative estimate."

British Columbia's development problems must be solved, he thought, by the best and most experienced minds available, "and which I suggest are available in boards of trade; and I am doubtful if this type of scientific, trained thinking is available anywhere else."

Boards must familiarize themselves with the problems to be faced, "because we have got to be prepared to accept and undertake leadership in the development of B.C., and if we don't undertake this leadership, then others will, others not as well able, not as experienced, not as capable."

"They will take this mantle and we will be facing problems which we never would have faced otherwise," said Mr. Melville.

He said, too, that boards had a duty to take a greater interest in municipal government.

There were in B.C. today 105 boards of trade and six regional organizations, and they were "doing wonderful work, as individuals and as groups." Mr. Melville outlined a number of local projects which he said were typical of board of trade activity, and mentioned specifically the Bella Coola road to the coast, Sawmish and its Howe Sound road, Okanagan-Main Line with its Cariboo Trail.

Those projects in turn had reflected success on all the boards in the province.

Then there had been regional projects, such as the Lower Mainland's businessman-farmer relations and industrial statements of policy. Similarly, the B.C. and Canadian Chambers of Commerce were at work, conveying their share of responsibility in the nation's development.

Concerning a federal project, Mr. Melville believed Ottawa should bear a larger part of the cost of constructing the Trans-Canada Highway, "because to my mind, the highway is more of a federal than provincial commitment." The present federal contribution was too small and the project taxed provincial resources too greatly.

"We have a vast potential for leadership," Mr. Melville said, "but this leadership cannot be exercised without individual effort, initiative and study."

"Organizations are only as good as the men in them and . . . we require strong organizations, stable organizations, and these must be adequately financed and led with enthusiasm."

Three-act play presented by UBC players

David Hughes, in his role of patriarch Don Juan del Monte, or Papa Juan, played his part well throughout the three-act play presented in the Empress Theatre last week. Never forgetting that he had lived—and learned—for 100 years, Papa Juan subtly taught to his descendants some of the wisdom gained throughout his long life. He pacified the quarrelsome, forgave the sinner and saw through the little antiferuges that were put in his way in an effort to lessen his activities. Papa, however, would have none of it, and indeed, was more active than any one of his descendants in planning the great day of his life—the 100th birthday party. Celebrating this occasion with his numerous family about him, he still had time to foster the romance of two young people he specially loves, for—beyond his birthday, his greatest wish is for a great-grandchild.

Jo Ann Johnson as "Currit" and John Maunsel as "Yrit" are the young lovers in the play, and Miss Johnson was particularly appealing, acting her part amazingly well. Mr. Maunsel, who is making his third tour with the UBC Players' Club, which presented last night's play, is an experienced amateur, having acted in five shows with the York Repertory Players' Club and in several at UBC.

Janice Beattie and "Eulalia" also was good, while Caroline Bell as Eulalia's shrewish mother, "Dona Elbemoni" acted the part of the poor, but virtuous relation excellently. Then there was "Alonso," the tipsy revolutionary, and Antonon, the stolid farmer with his bit of moralizing, and Dona Marcela, Papa Juan's daughter; all of whom acted well in a play that was not an easy one to act.

Sponsored by Rotary, with proceeds to go to their housing development, "Pleasantville" for elderly people, One Hundred Years Old played to a full house.

Rutland scouts attend camp over holiday

RUTLAND -- The Rutland Boy Scout troop held an overnight camp at Minkin's Landing, last week, and under Scoutmaster Bert Chichester, twenty-two boys attended, and most of them were in for their first swim of the season, in spite of the coolness of the water. The Scouts obtained some practice in cooking and campcraft, and had some instruction in outdoor tests such as estimation of distance, height, etc., throwing a lifeline and other scout training. Jack Johnson, Percy Green, ASM Cliff Schell, Art Gray and Eric Woods assisted with transportation.

Mrs. Irene Johnson motored to Salsqua last week to visit her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hall and infant son, Robbie, of Kamloops were visitors at the home of Ken's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hall over the holiday weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oldin, of West Vancouver, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hall at the weekend.

Miss Donella Lucas, who came home recently from UBC, is a patient in the Kelowna hospital for a tonsillectomy.

Rev. P. H. Mallet is attending the United Church Conference in Vancouver. The service on Sunday was taken by lay members of the congregation, with Neil Kerr giving the address.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Webster and baby daughter, of Vancouver, were holiday weekend visitors at the home of Mrs. Webster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hobbs.

The Rutland Women's Institute held a special meeting at the home of the vice-president, Mrs. Grant, to discuss plans for the annual flower show. The tentative date set was August 1, and as a new departure, the show is to be held in the evening instead of afternoon.

Builders of British Columbia

Joe Morris, who is also known among his fellow IWA members as "Big Mo," was born in the "cradle of trade unionists," Lancashire, England. He came to Canada and moved with his family to Vancouver Island in 1929. He earned his first Canadian dollar in the Old Cassidy Mine.

In 1934 Joe moved to the lumber industry with a job in the Chemainus mill and the following year he went into the woods as a chieftain. And lumbering is where Joe's heart has been ever since.

He spent three years in the Canadian Army during World War Two and returned to the woods at Comox four days before the IWA strike in 1946. He led the Ladysmith Sub-Local after the strike and took over leadership of the Duncan Local after the abortive attempt of the Communists to force a split in the IWA in 1948.

Joe has served three terms as a member of the Ladysmith City Council, and since his birthday is the same date as Vancouver's, he is a IWA contract expiry date, Builder of B.C.

Young Man with a Plan

One of these days, Fred's going to take over the farm. Meanwhile, he's planning, studying and working hard . . . learning right on the job.

Already he's learned a lot about modern farm management, and how a chartered bank can play its part in making farm living more comfortable, more profitable. He has found, for example, how useful the bank can be as a place to build up savings, to obtain credit, to seek financial advice and market information. He knows that the bank manager's door is open to everyone.

When you see a good-looking, well-run farm, chances are the farmer uses the services the chartered banks have built up for all Canadians.

"Selected" refuse dumping causes brief debate

"Selected" garbage dumping was briefly discussed at council meeting last week, when Ald. E. R. Winter remarked that there are several low-lying areas which could be filled with refuse.

Ald. Dick Parkinson asked if tree stumps were burned in the refuse dump, and when he received an affirmative reply, thought that they could be used to fill in sloughs such as the one at the top of the Glenmore hill, near Bankhead.

When the matter of filling in the slough was discussed a couple of years ago, several nearby residents objected to the plan. Mr. Parkinson nevertheless thought that "selected" garbage could be used, and the land reclaimed by Glenmore municipal, in later years.

The furniture for the tourist accommodation aboard the new Canadian Pacific flagships Empress of Britain is made from straight grained ash, elm, chestnut and French walnut.

Board of trade officials study organizational work

Secretary-managers, officers and members of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce throughout the Okanagan and Main Line districts went back to school in Vernon last week to reiterate the fundamentals of their work.

In charge of the session was the manager of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, Charles K. Bantock, of Vancouver. Such assemblies are held periodically at different points throughout the province and are designated as "know how" conferences, designed to enable officers and members to do a better job in their own communities.

The session took the form of three panel discussion periods on such topics as "successful committee organization" and "maintaining membership interest."

Participating in various panels were Joe Ziebart, president and Glen M. Garven, manager, Kamloops Board of Trade; C. E. R. Bazett, W. B. Hughes-Games, and Tom Hill, Kelowna board; Ernest Doe, Salmon Arm chamber; M. J. Conroy, M. V. McGuire, Vernon Board.

The conference was staged as part of the quarterly meeting of the As-

Salmon Arm, Mr. Doe said. The proposed holiday closing would be either full or half day, whichever was now observed.

A new approach to the problem of mosquito control was suggested in a resolution from the Central North Thompson Board of Trade at Clearwater. Previous attempts by the association extending over several years had failed to move the government into taking a more active part in campaigns.

The resolution as adopted asks the government to enact legislation permitting the establishment of mosquito control areas which would have power to raise funds and coordinate efforts within a particular area. The government was asked to pay for control only on those crown lands falling within the control area.

William MacGillivray, deputy minister of agriculture, advised the association by letter that applications for the post of home economist within the department were being advertised. At the January meeting in Kelowna, Armstrong delegates had pressed strongly for such an appointment to aid in girls' 4-H Club work throughout the province.

The meeting heard a report that action on the Silver Star highway was now a reality and decided to send a letter of appreciation to the Minister of Lands and Forests.

Two contentious questions in many rural areas were probed by the meeting.

Previous attempts to have the government waive taxation on non-profit community halls in rural area had not proven successful. The B.C. Chamber manager, C. K. Bantock, advised that this item will be placed on the agenda when the annual policy statements are made to the B.C. cabinet in the autumn.

Meanwhile, the association is asking that all relevant data on operation of such halls be given to the chamber prior to the meeting with the cabinet.

MONDAY CLOSING
On behalf of the Salmon Arm Chamber, Mr. Doe gave notice of motion that a resolution would be introduced at the next meeting calling on all organized cities and municipalities to adopt Mondays as the weekly closing day. The resolution originated with merchants of the meeting.

Appeal board grants permits

Appeal of F. and D. Schellenberg against the action of the building inspector in refusing a permit for the construction of an apartment house in the 700 block on Bernard Avenue, was allowed by the building appeal board providing two sprinkler systems are installed in the furnace room, and a fire alarm system installed on both floors.

Permit was refused on the grounds that the proposed structure would have an area of 3800 square feet per floor of frame construction, and would be located in third class fire limits, which is contrary to the fire and building regulations.

Building appeal board also allowed the appeal of S. M. Simpson Ltd., regarding the construction of a plywood plant. Building would cover an area of 8000 square feet and would be of frame construction. The permit was granted on the condition the exterior walls would be covered with galvanized iron or other incombustible material, have fire walls and that plans be submitted to the building inspector before construction starts.

The house was once a creature about the size of a fox.

"No one needs to convince me", says soap company official

One of the world's biggest soap companies has its anatomy mixed up. "I know, I've been a up."

At its head is a Hart—Ralph A. Hart, to be exact, a man who, as president of Colgate-Palmolive International and vice-president of Colgate-Palmolive Company, and recently elected to the Board of Directors of this company, is an example of Canadian country boy makes good—and in a big way.

Although now a resident of Short Hill, N.J., Mr. Hart has many continuing Canadian ties. His wife, Laura, is a native of Amsterdam, Saskatchewan, the daughter of pioneer settlers of the Qu'Appelle Valley. Mrs. Hart attended high school at Yorkton, 35 miles south of her home, and later taught school at Kenora. One of their daughters, Wilma, is married to Dr. H. Warriner of Winnipeg.

Five feet, six inches tall, and weighing but 155 lbs., Ralph Hart has nonetheless packed in a load of experience. Included are a job as a junior inspector with the old Union Bank, later absorbed by the Royal Bank, which took him into many of the towns and villages of Western Canada; a second travelling post as western agent for L. C. Smith and Corona typewriters; a stint as an amateur pilot in Edmonton during which time, along with Grant McConachie (now president of CPAA), he helped organize the Edmonton Flying Club; and even a try or two—completely unsuccessful he admits—of bronze busting contests at the Calgary Stampede.

BORN ADVENTURER
Now Ralph Hart has calmed down to a modest game of golf in the low country, that is when he can spare time from a job which, after 24 years with Colgate-Palmolive, keeps him hopping around its 28 worldwide subsidiaries.

It's a long way from the Rocky Mountains foothills of Banff, Alberta, to his present post but Mr. Hart has proven many times over his confession: "I guess I'm just a born adventurer."

Wax helps saw table Glass Block Panel Brings Functional Beauty to Garage

Heavy, rough stocks of lumber, such as 2x4s or 2x6s, do not slide smoothly on circular saw table top when being cut. To make lumber of this type easier and safer to handle, rub a thin layer of wax over the table top. This wax does not stain wood as oil might do.

MILLWORK PLANT
Kelowna Millwork Ltd., 455 Smith Avenue, has been granted a trade license by city council. The plant was taken over from the Kelowna Sawmill by a group of employees after KSM decided to vacate the retail trading business.

Even though the garage must serve a functional purpose, it can make a definite contribution to the overall appearance of the house. Here the designer uses a large panel of glass block to bring practical beauty to an attached garage which actually enhances the charm of the whole house. In addition to its eye appeal, the glass block panel provides light for the interior during the day and, at night with a light behind it, presents an attractive brightness which can help to discourage prowlers. Cleaned easily by wiping with a damp cloth, the glass block has insulation value equivalent to an eight-inch brick wall, a factor which helps to hold down heating costs.

Asphalt tile for basement

Asphalt tile makes an excellent covering for concrete basement floors. It is moisture resistant and comfortable underfoot.

A wood floor laid on concrete will rot unless protected by waterproofing. One method is to coat the concrete with a liquid asphalt waterproofing. Then put down a layer of heavy, asphalt saturated felt, overlapping the sheets half their width, mopping the asphalt waterproofing between the laps. The wood flooring can be laid on sleepers placed on the felt, or can be held down with an asphalt mastic cement. The process is understood by flooring contractors.

RUTLAND — The Rutland Board of Trade, perturbed over a report that the Greyhound stage lines service through Rutland was to be discontinued, held a special executive meeting to consider the matter. H. K. Hume, public utilities commissioner, and William Pavle, proprietor of the Silver Green Stages were present. It was indicated that the change was part of a policy of the Greyhound Lines to restrict their service to main highways and through traffic only, leaving secondary highways to local services. After lengthy discussion, it was decided to send a letter of protest to the Greyhound Lines, as the board felt that any reduction in travel and parcel delivery service would not be in the interest of the community. At the present time two Greyhound buses go through Rutland, one going south in the noon hour, and one north about 6 p.m. The majority of the members present felt that the present Greyhound service does not conflict with the Silver Green Lines, most of the passengers being from distant points. The board executive realizes the value of the local bus line, as the majority of members refrain from picking up acquaintances waiting for the local bus, so as not to take business from the local service.

Table top renewal not very difficult

When you've removed the old finish from a piece of furniture and have prepared the wood with sandpaper and filler, you can get a gleaming, new finish by following these steps:

Brush on a coat of oil stain of the desired color and let it stand a few minutes. By varying the time stain is left standing, you approach the same color for different woods. When stain has had time to penetrate wood sufficiently, wipe it off with a clean rag. Let dry for 48 hours before applying final finish to prevent streaking.

Next, remove dust with rag dampened in turpentine. Rig up a paper tent over furniture to keep out the dust. Then brush on two coats of varnish. The first should be thinned a little with turpentine. Sand lightly between coats. Final coat of varnish should be rubbed down carefully with fine steel wool. This removes brush marks and unevenness from finish.

For an extra-fine finish, mix a couple of spoonfuls of powdered pumice or rottenstone with linseed or crude oil. Dip felt pad in oil and rub it on with the grain. Tiny scratches made by steel wool will vanish, and you will have a smooth finish. Remove the oil with turpentine. Apply a coat or two of top-grade paste wax.

Talk given chinchilla breeders

Dr. T. H. Anstey, of the Summerland Experimental Station gave the Okanagan Chinchilla Club an interesting talk on the breeding and genetics of chinchillas at the Summerland Farm last week, when 35 chinchilla raisers from all parts of the valley were in attendance. Club president, D. S. Watson, of Penticton, presided.

Dr. Anstey illustrated just how much may be accomplished with the proper selection of breeding stock, and how, by following his plans for the first interior chinchilla field day were finalized. The field day committee consists of W. A. Cousins, Penticton, chairman; F. R. Lewis, Kelowna; L. J. Bishop, Okanagan Centre; D. L. Duggan, Vernon; and G. E. Perry, of Kamloops. This committee has arranged that the field day shall be held at the KLT clubhouse on June 3, and will be conducted along show lines. Two members of the B.C. Mink and Fur Breeders of Canada will act as judges, and will comment as they judge.

J. S. Crawford, B.C. director of the National Chinchilla Breeders, will also be in attendance. It is hoped that most chinchilla raisers in the interior will participate in this field day, both by attending and by entering chinchillas.

FLY CONTROL
Now is the time to think of fly control for the summer. One fly infestation will ruin a host of foodstuffs later in the season. Remember that a clean-up campaign is the first item on any such program. —Hagersville (Ont.) Press.

Red Cross move will speed single fund for charities

TORONTO—Canadian Red Cross, the nation's largest single health and welfare agency, gave its 1,233 local branches permission to participate in community chests or united funds this week. The Red Cross branches in Toronto and Vancouver are expected to take immediate steps to investigate united fund membership, and some other branches across the country may follow suit this summer.

LONG-TERM STUDY
The Red Cross move resulted from a long-term study of Canada's $50-million welfare fund raising problem and is direct reaction to increasing public impatience with the multiplicity of appeals and with the enormous claims made on men and women volunteer helpers in the campaigns.

Until recently, Red Cross branches could not take part in federated fund raising programs because of the constitution. It was claimed. Despite this claim some 14 small local branches had been doing so. The society's Central Council established a set of 11 conditions under which a branch could participate in the federated campaign. Despite the wording of the 11 conditions, the Red Cross agreement is about the same as that of other agencies which have gone into a joint operation.

Other national welfare agencies not now in a co-operative drive are expected to follow the Red Cross lead. In Toronto, for example, only two major agencies have declined to study fund raising federation and a meeting of business-community leaders is scheduled for late this week to discuss creation of some type of united fund.

The Red Cross reached some 99.7% of its national objective last year and did slightly better this year before.

"Given our own choice," said one official, "we probably would not have made this move. In some centres, however," he added, "we could see public opinion evolving toward an outright demand that we join a united fund at the local level."

In Toronto and Vancouver several businesses suggested to the Red Cross during its recent campaign for funds that contributions might not be repeated next year unless progress was made toward a fund raising federation. Toronto accounts for some 15% of the Society's total national budget. Vancouver provides some 6%.

National Campaign Chairman D. Bruce Shaw says: "We have become convinced that there is a definite public demand for a united fund in some places. Where this demand is strong enough, and where the climate indicated broad community support, we will participate wholeheartedly."

The frequency of charitable appeals, said Shaw, brought forth two overpowering arguments in favor of a united fund in some major centres. These were: opportunity to reduce the tremendous number of man-hours spent in solicitation; elimination of multiple in-plant appeals.

University of Toronto's John Morgan said that if we are to maintain voluntary health-welfare services in our increasingly complex economy, all agencies must develop a sense of partnership. Private welfare already is falling behind its tasks.

Last year, he said, Canada raised some $50 million to maintain voluntary health and welfare services while 25 years ago the nation was spending upwards of $30 millions. We aren't even keeping our welfare spending in line with the economic growth of the country, he said.

The Morgan statement does not include reference to the enormous increases in social expenditures at the three levels of government.

Work closets into plan if remodelling attic

In remodelling an attic to gain extra room or rooms it is important to work real closets into the plan.

For a hanging closet, a height of 5 1/2 feet and a minimum depth of two feet, at that height, is required. It is pointed out in Guy Henle's book, "How to plan your basement and attic," one of five room-by-room decorating series edited by Elinor Hillier and published by Ambassador Books, Toronto.

You can probably tell pretty quickly whether or not such a closet is feasible against the knee wall.

Drainage do's and don'ts

By ANDREW C. LANG

MAKING A DRY WELL

DO... build a dry well at least 8 feet from a downspout to carry rainwater away from the foundation.

DO... make a dry well from a barrel or iron drum, with the top and bottom removed, or from concrete blocks laid in place without mortar.

DO... dig trench from a spot under the downspout to the well, sloping it slightly away from the house.

DO... place drain tiles in the trench, with one end connected to the downspout and the other end leading into the well.

DON'T... overlook the importance of a strong cover, such as a concrete slab, so that there is no possibility of a cave-in when it is walked on.

DON'T... forget to check the flow of water through the drain tile into the dry well before filling in the ground.

DON'T... neglect to place some mortar or building paper over the joints between the drain tiles to prevent earth from seeping through.

DON'T... expect a dry well to solve your drainage problems; in severe cases, 3 or 4 wells are needed... and sometimes other drainage measures also are necessary.

Winfield plans home cooking, rummage sale

WINFIELD — The monthly meeting of the evening branch of St. Margaret's guild was held at the home of Miss W. Amor. The main business of the evening was making arrangements to hold a home cooking and rummage sale at which tea will be served. Date was set at May 30, in St. Margaret's Parish hall. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Mitchell and Malcolm spent a few days in Vancouver, visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor.

O. L. Jones wants cider taken out of champagne tax class

OTTAWA—COPPER Owen L. Jones, of the Okanagan Valley, has taken out of the champagne tax class.

He said in the Commons, claiming it would be a step toward making a new market for British Columbia surplus apples.

The member from Okanagan-Hastings said the federal law should be changed so that apple cider, carbonated like soft drinks and with an alcoholic content no greater than beer, could be taxed less than champagne.

"Cider clarified and carbonated calls for an excess tax of $2.50 per gallon. It has to be classified as champagne, of all things."

Mr. Jones urged Agriculture Minister Gardiner to take the matter up with Revenue Minister McCallum. He said he hoped Mr. Gardiner would not run into the same difficulty as one of his predecessors.

"Some 25 or 30 years ago," Mr. Jones said, "the Summerland experimental station carried on experiments in the making of liquors. They produced some excellent brandy and other liquors from peaches and apricots. They had a fine still and were doing a remarkable job of research."

"Everything was ready to be transferred to commercial use," he added, "when lo and behold, the revenue department came in and smashed the still and all the samples."

Text of Mr. Jones' speech reads as follows: Mr. Jones: Before the resolution carries there are just one or two remarks I should like to make. First of all, the last speaker suggested the farmers could get out of their difficulty with diversified farming. In general that could be true, but so far as the farmers of my constituency are concerned it could not be done because their farming is of a variety that cannot be alternated year after year. Once these trees are planted they are there for 10, 20 or 30 years. The diversification of crops is, therefore, very difficult if not impossible.

The problem of marketing is more intense, in my opinion for the farmers of my constituency than the diversification of their products. I am not going to repeat all that has already been said because the minister has attended conventions, he has received representations and he is fully conversant with the problems affecting the fruit and vegetable growers. I would ask him to pay special attention to the question of competition these people have suffered for several years. The facts are known to the department. Fruit and vegetable products from the United States are dumped, particularly in the west, at absurd prices just below our own fruits and vegetables already for market. This unfairly makes the market in many cases. Last year potatoes had to be left in the ground because it did not pay to dig them up.

The loss of the United Kingdom market was a severe blow to us. I hope the government will go out of its way this coming year to try to increase the shipments of our fruit to England, particularly apples. I say this because through government assistance we have more and more fruit lands coming into production. These lands were purchased by veterans under the DVA and developed with government assistance. The government therefore has a responsibility to see that the products produced on these government-sponsored lands find a ready market.

My real reason for rising was to express my appreciation of the work done by the experimental farm at Summerland. I spent some time there last summer going through all the various departments and watching them at work, carrying out their research, growing the fruit, and the canners of the valley. I can say this, that I have never come across a staff working so sincerely and earnestly as the staff at that experimental station. I did feel that they were sorely cramped for space.

The buildings are old and in many cases obsolete. I understand the government is contemplating erecting new buildings to house at least some of the laboratories and so on. I hope the minister will tell us later on what is actually being done and when it will be done.

I can assure him that the fruit growers and apple producers of the Okanagan valley are pleased with the work done under cramped conditions at the experimental farm at Summerland. But the loss of the British market created a serious problem in connection with our small apples. The British market prefers small apples to any others. Therefore this year we are forced to destroy or get rid of all our Cee grade apples, the 180's in all varieties except Winesaps and Newtowns. From now on these apples are to be classified as culls. They are the type of apple they like in Britain because of their small size. In many instances the trees were pruned and planted to grow that type of apple for the old country market. Now these are to be added to the normal culls this coming year, which are culled because of their lack of color or other blemishes, size development and so on. These small good apples are cull apples now. That is one of the problems which we have to deal in the Okanagan valley.

There is a limited market for our apple juice, and we have an excellent product which has found a market practically all over North America. The limited outlet for this apple juice does not take care of all the new culls plus the normal culls that will come into the packing-houses because of the new ruling. We have also processed some of these apples for pie filler and that kind of thing. It has been done with the help and assistance of the experimental farm, but these outlets do not take care of all our cull apples, and certainly will not this year.

At the convention held in January the British Columbia fruit growers association passed this resolution: "Be it resolved by this 1953 British Columbia fruit growers' association convention that this association conduct a comprehensive program of research into the possibilities of utilizing apples, particularly into the prospects of developing the making of cider into a subsidiary industry in the Okanagan."

This resolution was carried unanimously. Naturally the farmers are looking to the experimental farm to carry out the necessary experiments to produce a good cider. I have been given to understand that to have a marketable cider it should contain about the same alcoholic content as beer, namely roughly 8 percent proof and 4 percent by weight. Then to make it really marketable it has to be clarified and carbonated, and that is where our problem starts.

I am going to suggest to the minister that this is a place where he could combine with the Minister of National Revenue and possibly give some assistance to the farmers. Some 25 or 30 years ago his predecessor in the same office authorized experiments to be carried out at the same experimental station in the making of liquors. They produced some excellent brandy and other liquors from peaches and apricots. They had a fine still and were doing a remarkable job of research, and everything was ready to be transferred to commercial use when lo and behold the revenue department came in and smashed the still and all the samples. I hope the minister will not have the same trouble with the present Minister of National Revenue that his predecessor had.

Cider clarified and carbonated calls for an excess tax of $2.50 a gallon. This tax would kill the sale of apple cider, especially in competition with imported wines and so on. To satisfy the revenue department it has to be classified as champagne, of all things; no other wine, just champagne, and that is why it bears that tax per gallon. Without being carbonated it is a dull cider containing only 7 percent alcohol, less than beer. If it would have to pay an excise tax of 50 cents a gallon, I realize that with this alcoholic content it would have to be sold in liquor stores and beer parlours, which would lower its sale considerably; but at the same time I believe it would afford a wholesome drink in comparison with some of the beer that is now being sold.

I have been asked by some of the growers in my riding to make inquiries to see whether the revenue department and the agriculture department could not get together and allow a low grade alcoholic cider to be sold in grocery stores. I do not know whether it is feasible; I am just passing on the suggestion made to me. I have been given to understand that in California, New York and some other states a low alcoholic content cider and other fruit juices are being sold through ordinary grocery and similar channels.

The growers who have written to me suggest that something of that kind should be possible in Canada. It would be merely a soft drink made out of apples but presumably it has to contain a small amount of alcohol to keep it from deteriorating, not exceeding 2 to 2½ percent.

I also pass on another suggestion. Commercial alcohol can be made from waste fruit. We have waste fruit that is not even worth putting into cider but it could be made into commercial alcohol, of which a considerable quantity is used in Canada. I have made inquiries to find out where the present alcohol comes from and in what quantities. I find that seven or eight different types of alcohol are brought into Canada each year. Two of the main types can be and are sometimes made from fruit waste. These two types combined total 1,816,949 gallons which we brought into Canada last year, mainly from Germany.

That alcohol could be manufactured from waste fruit products right here in our own country. At Hood River in Oregon there is such a plant that has been operating profitably for many years making commercial alcohol out of waste fruit. When I made further inquiries as to the possibility of establishing such a plant in the Okanagan valley I found that the first thing you do is to send a bond to the national revenue excise branch for $100,000.

An hon. Member: Is that all? Mr. Jones: Yes; followed by a licence fee of $25 plus a special type of building erected to their specifications. Then you require a provincial licence as well, so the total outlay makes it practically impossible to entertain the idea of manufacturing straight commercial alcohol.

Owing to the fact that Canada is dependent on imports of nearly 2 million gallons annually, I would suggest that the department consider carrying on experiments at the experimental farm to find out whether alcohol cannot be produced cheaply by some other means than the expensive way the revenue department demands at the present time.

Rutland plans to improve park facilities

RUTLAND — The Rutland Park Society held an executive meeting at the fire hall on Friday evening to make plans for the coming season. Arrangements were made for sprinklers and pipes to provide water for the park. It was decided to hire an electrician to put in the power line to the pump and motor to be installed at the B.M.I.D. flume, the source of water supply.

A bee was arranged for Sunday, May 27 to do the necessary digging for the connecting main, and the stand pipes for the sprinklers. An underground distribution line is already laid in the park. Completion of the washrooms and toilets at the swimming pool, and reconstruction of the refreshment booth is planned.

The president of the society, J. A. Glen, having left for the interior, S. Sakamoto, vice-president, presided at the executive meeting. Treasurer Percy Wolfe reported a balance about $125 in hand with all expenses paid. With the prospect of over $500 to come from the Rutland Hall Society, the park executive hopes to be able to renovate the pavilion, as well as pay for the sprinkler system, and have funds on hand for further improvements. ## Rutland waterworks district awaiting word from gov't regarding guaranteeing of $200,000 for domestic water system

RUTLAND — Trustees of the Rutland Waterworks District have completed all the requirements for a connection to the water right branch in already being received, and are expected subject to receipt of the government approval of the district.

Delays have occurred due to the decision to enlarge the district to take in the Bond and Mufford roads, necessitating a petition to enlarge the boundaries, and an order-in-council approving this move. Further delay was caused by a 30-day waiting period that is required by law before the application for the licence to divert water from Mission Creek could be approved. All these things have been attended to, and the agreement between the waterworks district and the B.M.I.D. for storage water has been signed.

Applications for connections have come for quickly, and to a satisfactory extent. Owing to the number of new buildings going up, and the many recent changes of property, the deadline for application

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

When a tire blows out, stay calm. Many drivers become panicky, jam on the brakes, and then completely lose their heads when the car skids and careens over the road. And often this means a crack-up... into a tree, or worse yet, a passing car.

Here's what happens when a tire blows. It's a front tire, the car swerves in the direction of that tire. If it's a rear tire, the back end sways from side to side.

Here's what to do. Get a firm, but not frozen grip on the steering wheel and try to steer straight ahead. With your foot off the accelerator, the car will slow down quite rapidly if you leave it in gear, letting the engine itself act as a brake. Do not touch the brake pedal until you are in absolute and complete control. Then use the brakes gently and slowly.

With warm weather upon us, it's a strong temptation to step on it and whip up a breeze along the highway. But excessive speeding encourages low temperatures... especially since the temperatures can mount to over 200 degrees on hot pavement.

The difference between a blow-out and a crack-up is a cool head.

HOW TO PREVENT TOOTHACHES

"Have all your sound teeth removed to prevent aches! How terrible, that toothache should invade an eclogue in times of feasting; a beauty at a ball; a bridegroom on his nuptial night! Have them all out! Prevents biting, grinning, snarling and showing of teeth!" So urged an advertisement in an early American newspaper, about the time of dentist Paul Revere.

Your modern dentist believes in conservation, but, in fact, there is a stage in the breakdown of gums and bone around teeth, when nothing more can be done to save them. Then, the sooner you part with them, the more friendly and useful the replacements (dentures) will be. After healing, bone of the jaw, with its covering of gum, will be firmer, more rounded, instead of flabby and shifting. There'll be less movement of dentures, less tendency to skid when chewing food.

In Paul Revere's time, they had them all out, and "gummed it" while waiting for bone and soft tissues to heal. But now, people refuse to appear in public showing toothless gums, and object to eating baby food while waiting for dentures.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—1906

The Kelowna Land and Orchard Company is arranging for a supply of irrigation water to the one acre lots south of Mill creek and is having a flume built to connect with its main ditch from Mission Creek.

The fine stallion "April Fool" brought from Alberta by Charles Hill arrived on Friday's boat. The animal is said to have cost $2,100.

Provincial constable H. S. Rose and city constable W. Brent returned last Thursday from Penticton. They were on the lookout for train robbers (Bill Miner, Shorty Dunn and Calhoun) who had held up and robbed a CNR passenger train, who would have probably come that way had they escaped arrest in the Nicola. The constables report very bad weather in the mountains being subjected to a fall of snow one night.

W. B. M. Calder brought three fully ripened strawberries of fair size to the Courier office last week. This is remarkably early and speaks of a general ripening several days in advance of the average.

FORTY YEARS AGO—1916

Cyril Gore, of Westbank, left this morning for Vancouver to join the Pioneer Battalion for overseas service.

B. F. Petch and family arrived on Monday from Regina. They have taken up their residence on the Goodrich estate in Rutland.

At the N.C.O.'s class of the Kelowna Volunteer Reserve, on Wednesday evening volley and salute firing with blank cartridges was practiced. It is intended to hold field practice in the park shortly.

Mr. Featherstonhaugh, of Westbank, left on Monday morning for Winnipeg, where he intends joining the Strathcona Horse.

The funeral of Joe Christien, who was one of the pioneer residents of the valley, having come to the Okanagan in 1861, took place Friday morning. Mr. Christien, in his 87th year, collapsed and died at the dinner table.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—1926

D. H. Rattenbury, registrar, added some 304 names to the voters list of the South Okanagan constituency. However, some 35 names had to be struck off the list, those of people deceased or no longer residents in the riding. The total of names on the list now number 4,231, thirty less than last year.

In a letter to a Kelowna resident, C. deB. Green, well known naturalist writing from Maroon Valley states "apart from other vermin such as coyotes, badgers, horned owls and eagles, which also have to be found when sheep farming, crows have killed five of my lambs by piercing the skull and eating the brains. These five were killed in two days in spite of all I could do. This appears to settle the question as to whether crows do or do not kill lambs."

The death is recorded as having taken place on May 18 of William Dalglish Hobson, of Okanagan Mission, aged 58, for 35 years one of the most prominent and respected residents of the district.

Twenty years ago—1936
A Kelowna sportsman, Ralph Brown has become the first angler to become eligible for the gold button of the O.K. Big Fish Club which was recently organized. The big trout which was caught on Wednesday, May 13, weighed 16 lbs., 6 ounces.

An unusual influx of drug addicts into the Kelowna district has occurred during the past week, no fewer than seven men and women being investigated by the police. These dope fiends, several of whom confessed to being quite ready to beg, steal or go to any means to get drugs, have been annoying local physicians asking them for a "shot" to give them relief. The police have warned residents that any suspicious occurrences should be reported immediately.

Rutland won the Central Okanagan rural schools' track meet championship for the second time in eight years.

Glenmore municipal council set the tax rate for 1936 at 19 mills. The rate in 1935 was 18.5 mills.

The Brewster cup, annual trophy for which the lady members of Okanagan golf clubs compete, was won on the Kelowna course by Mrs. A. McClymont, with Mrs. J. H. Broad, runner-up.

TEN YEARS AGO—1946

The fruit container situation is becoming desperate as the strike at the S. M. Simpson mill continues. The forthcoming crop will require about fifteen million containers.

Evan McCormick, field service manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce addressed a general meeting of Kelowna Board of Trade and informed his hearers that it is regretful we consider ourselves Canadians by default. "We are not British, we are not American, therefore we say we are just Canadians. We have convinced everyone else in the world we are Canadians but have failed to convince ourselves."

Hospital egg gifts have reached 400 dozen and the Kelowna Hospital Society hopes to reach last year's total of 750 dozen.

Arrangements have been completed for the BCFGA to purchase four processing plants in the valley, according to A. G. DesBrisay, president of the BCFGA. The following plants are included in the deal: Modern Foods of the K.G.E., Kelowna; Co-Operative Processing Association, Oliver; Young Evaporating Company, Summerland; and the Woodside plant of the Vernon Fruit company.

At the 1946 convention of the BCFGA such a move was recommended.

Winfield girl exchanges vows at double ring ceremony

WINFIELD—Apple blossoms and other spring flowers formed a lovely setting for the marriage of Miss Nancy Ashman White, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. White, of Winfield, and Richard Plomer Rigby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rigby of Chilliwack.

The double ring ceremony took place at 2 p.m., May 12 in the Winfield United Church, with Rev. Ray Stobie of Naramata, cousin of the bride officiating.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was a picture in a floor-length gown on hand clips, pearl French lace and lacy nylon tulle. The fitted lace bodice with Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves extended over the skirt in a "Star" peplum effect. The skirt was lacy nylon tulle. Over the silk tulle, with lace flower appliques encrusted with mother of pearl, a Juliet cap of lace and mother of pearl held her nylon tulle trimmed with lace appliques veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendant was Mary White, sister of the bride. She wore a cocktail length pink nylon lace over net and tulle gown with fitted bodice and Peter Pan collar. Pink lace mitts, pink shoes and bandeau completed her outfit. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The groomsmen were Carl Rigby of New Westminster, brother of the groom. The ushers were, Don Harwood of Vernon, cousin of the bride and Ralph Rigby of Chilliwack, brother of the groom.

The organist was Mrs. J. Klassen and during the signing of the register, she played "O Perfect Love". The reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a three tier wedding cake embedded in tulle and flanked on either side with vases of carnations.

For the occasion the bride's mother chose a dusty rose two-piece dress with navy accessories, and a corsage of roses completed her outfit. The groom's mother chose a French grey suit with pink accessories and her corsage was of tea roses.

The bride's going away outfit was a powder blue limited suit with white accessories and she wore a corsage of roses.

The young couple left by car for an unknown destination and on their return will take up residence in Chilliwack, B.C.

Winfield club outlines fish, game activities Rutland hall society will be disbanded after funds on hand are distributed

WINFIELD—The quarterly meeting of the Ocoela Fish and Game Club was held recently in the memorial hall. The business session was brief, as the main object was to show wildlife films.

A crowd of more than 200 persons attended. The business session consisted of reports of the committees. The first report was made by Brian Cooney. He told the audience the work the Ocoela club was doing on the Duck lake game preserve and explained the new boundaries which are A. C. Taylor's driveway to the south, the power line to the east, and a line extending east and west across the Indian reserve to the north at a point 200 yards north of the northern shore of Duck lake. He also stated that the main object in retaining the lake as a preserve was to improve migratory fowl shooting in the area.

In the near future the club hopes to plant weeping willow trees on the eastern shore and to have a lookout on the highway at the southern end of the lake. The CNR right-of-way from Winfield station to Penticton lake now is closed to all shooting by authority of the divisional road master of the CNR.

The second report was given by A. Pollard. He told of the new trap installations at Pollard's pond, at Winfield. He also reported on the turkey, ham and chicken shoot which will take place at Pollard's pond, Sunday, June 17, starting at 10 a.m., and continuing for the rest of the day.

Shooters and onlookers will be made welcome, and it is suggested that they take a basket lunch and make a day of it. Mr. Pollard went on to explain a suggestion from the game commission that the club have a $5 general firearms licence to replace the present $4 licence and the $7 big game licence. A resolution supporting this suggestion was made from the floor and was passed unanimously.

He also stated that the executive of the club would like to be able to put on a game dinner and explained it would mean a lot of work and left it with the members to think over and pass on their ideas to the executive.

H. Wachnichi gave the last report. He told the members of the terrific coaste fish catch made by C. Norgaard in Duck lake and Wood Creek during 1955—29 tons. Mr. Norgaard, under a permit issued to the club, is carrying on this work during 1956.

After the reports, the pictures were shown. The three films were enjoyed by all.

The Winfield hospital auxiliary were pleased with the response for donations for their stall at the Kelowna Hospital Fair. It proved a great success and $80 was netted.

RUTLAND—Rutland Hall Society last week elected a new slate of officers, and voted unanimously to disband the society as soon as the funds on hand can be disbursed, and any outstanding accounts settled.

The meeting discussed various president, and C. D. Buckland as secretary-treasurer.

The meeting discussed various president, and C. D. Buckland as secretary-treasurer. The meeting discussed various president, and C. D. Buckland as secretary-treasurer.

This should give these organizations slightly over $900 each. While some support was given to the idea of a small community hall, it was felt that the money was insufficient for such a purpose, and the high school facilities and church halls provided meeting places for the great majority of local organizations. The newly elected executive met after adjournment of the general meeting, and chose A. W. Gray as president; D. H. Campbell, vice.

George Johnston was fined $75 and costs when he was adjudged guilty on an impaired driving charge. The case had been adjourned several times before the court found him guilty.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.
